Armed Ethiopians Shot Down After Conspiracy Fails

Communique Fails to Give Number of Natives 'Liquidated'

Rome—(AP)—The Italian conquerors of Ethiopia announced in a terse official communique today that firing squads had "liquidated" all Ethiopians found with arms in their homes—a grim sequel to an attempt to assassinate Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani in Addis Ababa. Although the communique did not say how many Ethiopians had been executed, it was announced that of 2,000 suspects arrested, only 100 had been freed.

"All those found with arms in their tufts (native grass houses) have been shot," said the brief communique. "The remainder are under examination." Firing squads worked with hot rifles, signaling the transition of ill-dressed Ethiopians from one of pacification by gifts to one of death for dissidents.

The 2,000 suspects—the entire native population of Addis Ababa—is but 90,000—had been rounded up by royal carabinieri and native police since Friday, when a band of Ethiopians, approaching the viceroy's suite as he distributed gifts, threw hand grenades at his party.

Viceroy Graziani was wounded—perhaps more seriously than has been disclosed. So was Air General Aurelio Liatta and the Coptic Bishop Cyril, who submitted to Italian rule after blackshirts entered bloody Addis Ababa last May 5.

Since then Premier Benito Mussolini has ordered swift death for those Ethiopians found guilty of any connection with the bombing and the ordered shot any native who resists Italian domination anywhere in the lost kingdom of Haile Selassie.

Republicans Rap Reciprocal Trade Treaty Authority

Hold President's Power Threat to 'Cash and Carry' Neutrality

Washington—(AP)—Republicans criticized the president's power to make reciprocal trade agreements, up for senate debate today, as inconsistent with the "cash and carry" type of neutrality.

The opponents of the administration's treaties intended to promote world trade argued this building up of American commerce was useless if foreign purchasers would be denied American supplies in time of war. Their argument referred also to the Pittman bill to prohibit the transport of American owned goods on American ships to belligerents, which the senate will consider this week. It would allow fighting nations to buy goods in this country and carry them off on foreign ships.

House members mourned the death last night of an important administration leader—73-year-old Chairman James P. Buchanan (D-Texas) of the appropriations committee. Succeeding him as head of the group which passes on administration requests for funds is Representative Edward T. Taylor (D-Colo.), at 78 the oldest man in the house.

Court Question
Discussion of the president's court reorganization program centered on expressions from some of Mr. Roosevelt's friends that they believed he would accept a constitutional amendment as a supplement to his proposal.

Some senators said the president's judicial program might be combined with an amendment defining the national government's power over interstate commerce to include production of goods which moved across state lines. This would cover agriculture and industry, they declared.

Civil liberties investigators expected their inquiry into labor disputes that sent to the amount of $200 in arrears, and that the doors would not be open until something was done about it. Miss Quimby assumed her duties in this work on Feb. 5, succeeding Charles Knudsen, resigned. She states that the matter will be taken up with the district office at Stevens Point.

Three patriotic organizations, carrying their colors, attended the Washington's birthday memorial services at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, when the Rev. G. N. Doody, pastor of the church, talked of "The Glory of America" to the Orville Ballard post, the American Legion auxiliary and the Women's Relief corps.

FWD Firm Meets Labor Demands in 30-Day Agreement

Workers Return to Factory After Approving Temporary Pact

Clintonville—Acceptance of a temporary wage and hour agreement last night by employees of the Four Wheel Drive company averted a threatened labor dispute. The workers had asked a 40-hour week and a pay increase to maintain the wage level they were receiving for working 50 hours. Fred Hangartner, president of the workers' committee, said 90 per cent of them signed the petition presenting the demands.

The night shift at the plant refused to go to work last night when a workers' committee and officials of the firm, Hangartner said, were unable to reach a settlement. At a mass meeting later, a proposal by Walter Olen, company president, was made through C. McConville, superintendent, which would be effective for 30 days or until a decision can be reached by the board of directors.

The workers voted approval and the night shift resumed operations. Ralph Parfitt, secretary of a workers' union newly formed at a meeting, said the terms provide for a 25 per cent hourly wage increase, a 40-hour week, time and a half for overtime and double time for Sunday work.

The union formed was named the Four Wheel Drive Employees' association. Mike Schmidt was named president of the independent organization. Ed Cleveland, vice president, Ralph Parfitt, secretary, and Fred Korb, treasurer. About 450 employees were affected by the dispute. The day shift left the plant at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when some of them voluntarily would have worked until 6 o'clock or later. The night shift, which refused to go in until an agreement was reached, resumed work about 10 o'clock last night.

3 of Rail Crew Escape Injury in Derailment

Three men escaped injury about 8:15 this morning when the caboose in which they were riding and another freight car were derailed on the Milwaukee road branch line between Appleton and Menasha. The accident occurred near the intersection with new Highway 41 three miles west of Appleton. A broken rail was blamed for the mishap, which sent the freight car and caboose into a ditch along the right-of-way. Fire broke out in the caboose, but it was extinguished by the three members of the crew who were riding in the car. A wrecking crew was due here this noon from Green Bay to repair the track and replace the two cars.

11 to Face Court For Sentencing in Vote Conspiracy

Will Learn Fate Thursday in Federal Court at Kansas City

Kansas City—(AP)—Eleven out of the first 14 persons summoned to trial on charges of vote fraud conspiracy awaited sentence today as the federal government turned to the original list of 75 indicted for more trials.

The "score" to date is: seven convicted, four pleading no defense; three on which a jury was unable to agree.

Six Democrats and one Republican have been convicted of conspiring to defraud more than 200 voters in two of Kansas City's 460 precincts by ballot box stuffing, ballot tampering and intimidation last Nov. 3.

A jury yesterday convicted all five defendants before it. One was John A. Lutharan, a Democratic precinct captain who was identified by his attorney, William G. Boatright, during questioning as a member of the "goat faction." The "goats" are the followers of the powerful Democratic organization leader, T. J. "Boss" Pendergast, as contrasted with the "rabbits," Democratic followers of Representative Joseph E. Shannon. Shannon was a witness before the grand jury.

A previous jury convicted two men but were unable to agree on three other defendants who may be retired. The three Republicans and one Democrat who pleaded no defense, placing themselves at the mercy of the court, will be sentenced Thursday along with the seven convicted. Judge Merrill E. Otis' most extreme choice could be a $5,000 fine or 10-year sentence—or both.

President's Plan May be Precedent For State Courts

Lawrence Believes Governor
Might Follow Suit

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — If the congress of the United States can assume the right to fix the size of the supreme court of the United States to conform to the desires of the executive, why can't a state legislature at the request of a governor do the same thing with respect to state supreme courts?

This question has come to me from several persons in various parts of the country, many of whom live in states where the state constitutions do not provide against tampering with the judicial power.

The answer is that, in the absence of a state constitutional restriction on the subject, the precedent will be fully established if President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the supreme court should be adopted by congress. The various state legislatures and governors would then be able to add judges in state supreme courts at will whenever the decisions of the existing number of judges happened to be politically or economically unpalatable to the party in power.

The average layman is unfamiliar with the extent to which what happens with respect to the rules and procedure and customs that surround the supreme court of the United States is taken as a justifying precedent for similar action in the judicial branches of the 48 state governments. If governors of states followed the precedent set by the president of the United States, they could, with the cooperation of a majority of both houses of the state legislatures, find it unnecessary to change their state constitutions whenever decisions of the supreme court of their states held state acts to be invalid. The simple process then might be to change the justices by adding enough to get a desired majority on the bench.

No Explicit Power

As a matter of fact, congress has no explicit power to fix the size of the supreme court of the United States. Nowhere in the federal constitution is there any mention made of the size that the supreme court is to be. The constitution does say that the "judicial power" is to be vested in a supreme court and it does say that congress may establish "inferior courts," now commonly called "lower courts," by the framers of the constitution failed to grant congress the specific power to fix the number of justices of the supreme court. What happened was that congress in 1789 passed the first judiciary act and set the number of justices at five. From that assumption of power by congress, the precedent has been developed that congress may at any time fix the size of the supreme court.

But while congress has at different times altered the size of the court, there is absolutely no precedent for the setting up of a court of fluctuating size and one wherein the number of justices is directly related to the fact of life tenure. The framers of the constitution wanted judges to be free from politics so they assured them of life tenure.

Today what the congress is asked to do is to set another precedent—to fix the size of the supreme court contingent upon the age of the justices—something with which congress has really no constitutional right to interfere by any limitation direct or indirect. To force judges to resign by publicly humiliating them, or by appointing justices to sit alongside of them on the theory that their age makes them infirm, is being construed by many observers as a form of impairment of the life tenure itself, which was by the explicit terms of the constitution to be free from any interference.

Would be "Contingent"

May congress assume the right to make the supreme court of fluctuating size and may the chief executive constitutionally ask congress to alter the size of the court when the decisions of that court displease the administration in power? This is the new question that has arisen and, since no warrant for the exercise by congress of its initial action in 1789 in fixing the size of the court on a definite basis can be found in the constitution, the passage of the president's proposal now means a precedent which would give congress what some day may be known as "contingent" authority to make the size of the court depend on any circumstance which the national legislature may select.

Thus if the congress can, as is proposed in Mr. Roosevelt's bill, delegate to the president the authority to appoint new justices whenever certain judges reach the age of 70, authority can also be conferred on the president to appoint certain extra judges whenever "in the public interest" or in promotion of the "general welfare," the chief executive may deem it desirable to increase the size of the court so as to neutralize or render ineffective the decisions of a majority of the existing justices of the supreme court.

The use, in other words, of the words "seventy years of age" as a justification for altering the size of the court, hardly constitutes a legislative standard for the exercise of the appointing power by the chief executive, when, in fact, no limitation on age either as to the appointment of justices in the first instance or their retirement is covered by the constitution itself.

May Serve 10 Years

Congress, it will be noted, has not been asked to pass a law preventing the executive from appointing justices who happen to be 69 years old or even seventy. The appointing of new justices is to occur only when the existing justices have reached the age of 70 and also shall have served 10 years on the federal bench. Should they be 69 years old and not have served on the federal bench, they are plainly eligible for appointment and can serve ten years, namely until they are 79 before an additional justice can be named, under the president's plan, to relieve them, so to speak, of the alleged congestion of their work.

But the fact that the president's bill was aimed only at the particular six men over seventy years of age, all of whom have already served 10 years or more on the supreme court bench, is no longer disputed in official quarters, because the speeches of the administration spokesmen are openly discussing the views of the justices as a basic reason for the new legislation.

Thus important precedents affecting in the long run the judicial power—not only of the supreme court of the United States but the highest courts in the various states

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Various Mayors

(This is the second of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occurring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY LLOYD J. DERUS

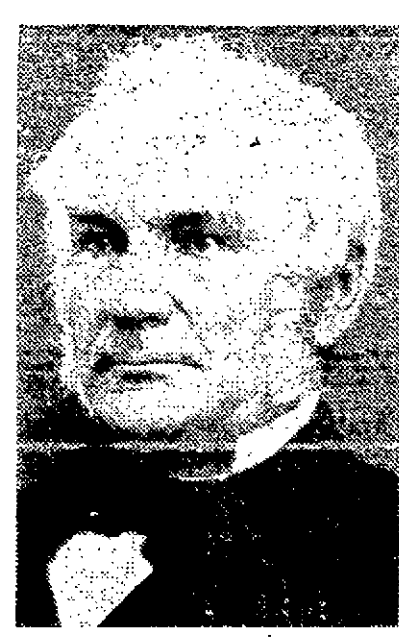

Alvin Foster took over Appleton's governmental reins as mayor in 1859 and showed the same foresight in directing city affairs as Amos Storey who preceded him as mayor in 1837 and 1858.

Moving of the cemetery to a less central location in the city to permit expansion of the business district was advocated by Mayor Foster. He urged the building of several bridges and a better system in caring for the poor. Following his appeal for a fire department, the hook and ladder company was organized with 30 men read for call. Many new homes were constructed during 1859 and a number of new businesses began. The Appleton Motor newspaper made its first appearance that year while the Crescent was enjoying its seventh year of successful business.

Merchants for the first time agreed on a closing hour, 8 o'clock in the evening. The barrel factory was employing 200 men with an output of 500 barrels per day. Prices during the year averaged about $7 for a barrel of flour, 7 to 8 cents for a pound of dressed poultry and 20 cents for a bushel of potatoes.

Teachers Split on Retirement Age Vote

Only 50 per cent of the Appleton Public school teachers favor the compulsory retirement act which is being considered by the state legislature, results of a questionnaire submitted recently to teachers shows. The majority of teachers favoring the act place the retirement age at 65 years with others naming 70 years.

"Why I Choose CAMELS"

JIMMIE FOXX
slugging first baseman of the Boston Red Sox says:

"I STICK by Camels and Camels I stick by me. Camels set me right. I smoke Camels for their refreshing 'lift,' and for the aid they give my digestion. Camels help me feel my food agrees with me."

At mealtimes Camels are an aid to digestion—speeding up the flow of digestive fluids—increasing alkalinity—bringing a sense of well-being. Steady smokers prefer Camels. They are so mild!

CHIEF ENGINEER
George J. Buckingham stows up with Camels before clearing port. He says: "It's a strain keeping machinery under control. Camels help ease the tension."

THE CHAMPION GIRL bronco-buster and rodeo star, Rose Davis, says: "The Camels I smoke with my meals and after are most enjoyable."

"MARK ME DOWN as a man who appreciates how mild and tasty Camels are," says all-events bowling champion, Johnny Murphy.

"I'M A SECRETARY," says Joselyn Libby, "and I often eat in a hurry. When I enjoy Camels with my food I feel on top of the world."

"I WANT A CIGARETTE that doesn't jangle my nerves," says master welder Dan Roffery. "And Camels don't. Camels are mild!"

GOING DOWN the compression locks. Sidney S. Wetzel, tunnel engineer says: "My work involves danger. But Camels don't frazzle my nerves."

THE LIGHTNING SWORD play of Bela de Tussan, fencing instructor, is faster than the eye. He says: "I welcome the 'lift' in energy I get with a Camel."

N'TL OUTBOARD MOTOR-BOAT CHAMPION. Fred Jacoby, Jr. "My condition is important! That's why Camel is my cigarette," says Fred.

"CAMELS help keep me pepped up," TWA hostess, Betty Steffen, says. "I see many famous people. And most of them smoke Camels."

Duffy Refused to Put His Name on Cigaret Endorsement

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Although he actually smokes them, Senator F. Ryan Duffy refused to endorse those cigarettes which other senators are lucratively endorsing these days.

Duffy was a little embarrassed when a reporter to whom he offered a cigarette noticed they were of the brand so constantly endorsed at, they say, a profit of $1,000 to the endorser.

"Do you get them free, and do they really pay a thousand dollars?" the newsmag asked.

"No, and I haven't endorsed them," Duffy blushed.

"Why, how thoughtless of them not to get an endorsement from a senator who really smokes them," the reporter commented.

"But they did ask me to," the senator replied in a small voice.

"And you turned down a thousand dollars?" in astonishment.

"I was afraid it might be misunderstood," the senator replied.

Needles, thimbles, thread, scissors and materials are among the articles necessary each week for members of the Needlecraft club.

The girls may bring any fancy needlework to school and work on it during the regular club period each Thursday. June Fumal is president of the group with Miss Genevieve Webb and Miss Fern Taylor, advisers.

EDUCATORS ASK 'SUBSTANTIAL MAJORITY OF LAY JUSTICES' FOR SUPREME COURT

New Orleans—(AP)—A suggestion to President Roosevelt that a "substantial majority of lay justices" be included in his proposed plan to reorganize the supreme court drew the attention of delegates to the annual convention of the National Educational association Monday.

"Undoubtedly the conservative rulings of the court during the past generation are traceable to the fact that the great majority of the justices have been men long associated with the great corporations of the nation," said a telegram sent to the president by directors of the John Dewey association and the Social Frontier, an educators' journal, both allied with the N. E. A.

"While this interest is important and entirely legitimate, the principles of democracy would scarcely permit the inclusion in the court membership of more than two jus-

Residents of Valley 300 Years Ago Were Cannibals

The Fox river valley of 300 years ago, providing abundance for Indians who planted and cultivated corn, beans, squash, melons, who gathered wild grapes and apples, caught game and fish, but whose diet included the flesh of their fellow men, was described by S. L. Spengler, Menasha attorney, at a meeting of the Appleton Lions club at Conway hotel Monday noon.

The valley, with all its abundance, also provided great camping places, and, to a certain extent, the shores of Lake Winnebago along the rivers and streams, Spengler said.

At the time Green Bay was founded, three centuries ago, he said, the Winnebago Indians occupied much of the valley from Green Bay to Neenah-Menasha. The Menominees held the territory west of Antigo while the Potawatomis and Outagamies were farther north and east, the Outagamies from Sturgeon Bay to and including Washington's Island.

Most War-like Tribes differed considerably in their characteristics, he said, and the Winnebagos were the fiercest, the most war-like and the most troublesome in this section of the valley and, to a certain extent, at least, were cannibalistic. A number of stories have been handed down of how they killed, cooked and ate Indian and even white captives.

An outstanding example of their treachery is contained in the story of their treatment of a relief expedition from the Illinois tribe.

It was in a winter in which the Winnebagos were suffering from famine. A company of Illinois Indians came north with supplies, gave to the Winnebagos and joined in a great festival. At the height of the celebration, the Winnebagos, intoxicated with food or drink, cut the bow strings of their benefactors, killed them all and ate the bodies.

Menominees Friendly The Menominees on the other hand were friendly and many early explorers or settlers owed their lives to warnings or actual help from the friendly tribe, Spengler said.

About 100 years ago, the attorney related, the government attempted to civilize the Indians in this vicinity and as a part of the program built a number of houses at Neenah. The Indians pulled up the plank floors, housed their horses in the new buildings, but continued to live in tepees themselves.

Many Indian names now in use are links with the early history of the valley. Outagamie, meaning people-in-the-other-shore, probably described the tribe when it was located in the vicinity of the outlet.

Winnebago means fetid or stinking water and Winneconne about the same thing. Calumet means pipe of peace; Keshena, swift flying; Menasha, island; Neenah, water; Potawatomi, makers of fire; Poyagan, pike; Poyissippi, running-in-the-lake; Waupaca, pale water; Wisconsin, swift water.

At the close of his talk, Spengler displayed a part of his large collection of Indian relics including copper axes, spear heads, knives and tools, stone axes, tools and implements, arrow heads and ornaments. Many of the relics were found in this section of the state.

ADMIRAL DIES

Portsmouth, N. H.—(AP)—Admiral Henry T. Mayo, 80, naval commander in chief during the World War, died today from a heart attack at the home of his son, Captain C. G. Mayo. He retired in 1920.

Known as a rigid upholder of the highest standards of the navy, the admiral advocated a "lion" navy at the conclusion of the World War. Explaining many were predicting the coming of universal peace when the lion and the lamb would lie down together, he declared that when that day came he wanted the United States to be the lion.

Doyle and Anderson were good enough for the police, however, and as Doyle and Anderson the two men pleaded guilty of drunkenness and in default of $10 fines ordered by Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan, will spend the next 20 days in the county detention camp.

That motorists Monday were complaining about more kinds of automobile freezing than they've encountered all winter. Water, splashed up from streets and highways Saturday night and early Sunday, froze on the under-sides of the cars and as a result, brakes, pedals and various other gadgets on many cars worked reluctantly if at all.

That the rain and warm weather that preceded Monday's cold snap provided Appleton's young potential engineers more opportunity for experiment than they've had for a long time. Youngsters in all sections of the city were seen cutting channels in the ice to permit water to flow off sidewalks or into sewers or down sloping drive ways. Although there might have been a few dams and other tricks built into the channels here and there, the general effect was all right.

That motorists Monday were complaining about more kinds of automobile freezing than they've encountered all winter. Water, splashed up from streets and highways Saturday night and early Sunday, froze on the under-sides of the cars and as a result, brakes, pedals and various other gadgets on many cars worked reluctantly if at all.

That the rain and warm weather that preceded Monday's cold snap provided Appleton's young potential engineers more opportunity for experiment than they've had for a long time. Youngsters in all sections of the city were seen cutting channels in the ice to permit water to flow off sidewalks or into sewers or down sloping drive ways. Although there might have been a few dams and other tricks built into the channels here and there, the general effect was all right.

Favors Election And 6-Year Terms For U. S. Judges

Under The Capitol Dome

Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

Madison—Defending one's right to a seat in the legislature is an expensive procedure, it developed this week. Alvin A. Handrich, Wau-paca county's Progressive assembly-man, will be reimbursed to the extent of $300 under the terms of a bill introduced in the assembly by his close friends John Kostuck, also a Progressive, of Portage.

Handrich, after a prolonged and sharp fight, was voted his seat by the assembly at the beginning of the session, defeating Edwin Russell, the Republican candidate who claimed he was elected, from Ogdensburg.

The author of the bill which would pay Handrich for the expenses he maintains the contest necessitated is the only blind member of the assembly, and the only blind man ever elected to that body. A piano tuner in private life, Kostuck has studied at the University of Wisconsin, and is now serving his fourth term in the legislature.

Glenn Turner, ranking Wisconsin Socialist, and a leading exponent of supreme court reform, is a native of Stockbridge, Calumet county. Turner is now a candidate for the state supreme court, opposing Joseph Martin of Green Bay and Fred M. Wylie of Madison. Turner says that "the exercise of the judicial veto is usurpation of power and should be resisted".

"Let your conscience be your guide" Senator John E. Cashman, Denmark, replied to a reporter who asked him how he wished to be designated in view of the fact that he has voted against Progressives on most administration measures thus far this session, and ran for congress on the Democratic ticket last year.

"Call me a Progressive until your conscience dictates otherwise," he said. While Senator Cashman has been comparatively quiet in session thus far, it is not unlikely that some of the administration proposals to come before the senate within the next few weeks will bring him to his feet. Governor LaFollette's supposed plan to reorganize state executive departments, which will probably be presented to the legislature soon, is likely to get some lashings from the Denmark senator.

That W. C. Hansen, formerly of Neenah and Oconto, is making a strong campaign for John Callahan's position as state superintendent of public instruction, is frequently reported here. Hansen, who was born and raised in Neenah, and who once taught school in Oconto, is now superintendent of schools in Stoughton. His principal objection to Callahan's candidacy is the latter's age, 71.

Callahan, formerly superintendent of public schools in Menasha, has been spending most of his time lately in traveling about the country with a regents' committee in search of a new president of the University of Wisconsin and has been devoting little time to campaigning.

The appointment of Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the state university law school to the United States supreme court will find no objections among his students. The dean, ranked as a liberal, and prominently mentioned as one of the leading possibilities for appointment if President Roosevelt's court change is approved, is regarded by his students as a "regular guy".

In the same building with Garrison is another prominent law professor, also classed as a leading liberal, who disagrees heartily with the President's proposed court changes, Charles Bunn, who has a distinguished reputation as a constitutional lawyer, and who once practiced law in the same office with Pierce Butler, now on the supreme court, feels that the president's plan merely delays the real solution of the court problem, namely, a constitutional amendment.

Among the letters received daily by members of the legislature are many which are difficult to answer. Senator Pierce R. Morrissey, Rush Lake, who represents Calumet and Winnebago counties, spent a week on a request by a teacher-constituent for information on "plunder boxes".

A "plunder box" in legislative parlance is a stout, large wooden trunk in which some members keep their less valuable, and more bulky papers and documents. How and when these trunks became known as "plunder boxes" no one around the senate seems able to answer. However, there is something mysterious about those convenient receptacles, Senator Morrissey assured his correspondent.

Potpourri: To many legislators, last Wednesday was the best day of this session. It was payday.... The assembly frequently invites department heads to explain their budget needs in person, but most of the members leave the chamber during the discussion. When Col. John Hamman discussed the needs of the board of control this week, fewer than one third of the house listened.... Pat Howlett, former Winnebago county clerk, is on the payroll at $180 a month as a clerk in the senate chief clerk's office.... Frank N. Graess, Sturgeon Bay Republican assemblyman, is receiving many letters from business men and manufacturers on his stand against the labor bill, which he described as hastily formed, and incomplete.... Among those to appear in favor of Senator Phil Nelson's bill to provide $3,600,000 for state aid to high school was J. F. Cavanaugh, Kaukauna superintendent of schools.... Senator Michael Kresky, Green Bay, a progressive and a lawyer, approves Governor LaFollette's own supreme court proposals, saying, "It's a good idea and one that most judges should take advantage of".... Interested gallery spectators at Assemblyman William Rohan's fight for his flat $5 license fee bill this week were his two sons, John, of the Public Service Commission staff, and William Jr., a senior at the university.... Emil Baensch, Manitowoc, who was a lieutenant governor of Wisconsin before the turn of the century, has been writing legislators on his own method of selecting university regents, namely, one from each congressional district, and elected by the people.

Government Appeals Award to Railroad

Chicago—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals Monday heard the federal government's appeal from an award of $347,411.55 made by a Wisconsin jury to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad for land condemnation. The government contended the land, acquired for construction of a Mississippi river dam and lock at Alma, Wis., was worth only $85,000. The government said this figure had been set by a commission of appraisers.

The railroad refused the commission's figure and procured the jury award for the larger amount in the court of Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone. The C. B. and Q. also contended the government project required extensive moving of its tracks.

WE STAND BETTER WHEN DIVIDED

The real beauty about the President's proposal to reorganize the judiciary is that the people of the country have quit blindly following and begun to think.

There is a great danger in playing cattle. The play may lead to the abattoir. If it does there is little sympathy for those who get the heavy mail on the forehead. They merited little better.

But the proposition to pack the Court has ripped the country asunder insofar as its thinking processes are concerned. And this is all to the good.

Southern newspapers that have marched shoulder to shoulder in defense of anything proposed by a Democratic President find themselves strangely at odds. The New York Times is arguing against its able Washington correspondent, Mr. Kroch. Borah and Norris, Wheeler and Capper, Johnson and Burke, all have given the proposition original and independent consideration, and, fearful of its tremendous importance, have returned for the time to the great and solid American system of representative government, that is, the bringing to the fore of the best opinions created by active minds mellowed by experience, and without regard to the political consequences of the day. Only in the field of Labor is there a somewhat servile and blind adoration of anything the President does which reflects ill upon both Messrs. Lewis and Green. It is rather pathetic that where leaders in every other field are showing such fresh and wholesome independence labor leaders have not passed the age where "You scratch my back and I will scratch yours."

There may be no particular reason for the wide divergence of opinion in Congress and elsewhere and yet we think it possible to advance a theory in that regard that may bear watching at least.

That theory is this: the dangerous man in government is he who depends upon theory because he lacks experience.

The theorist, it is wise to remember, has always been a spear in the side of all government. He may be good, kind, honest, able and intelligent. But he is no match in dependability for a man who can add to those attributes the important one of experience. Both the President and Senator LaFollette are theorists. Senators Borah, Wheeler and Norris are all practical and experienced men.

The theorist may, sometimes in rather a boyish fashion, figure that he can devise a scheme to add six members to the Supreme Court and thus obtain his immediate desire without hurting anyone or anything. He really loves the constitution but in the way a man loves the grandmother he never saw.

When you start to monkey with an institution like the Constitution, which everyone knows has brought us where we are, a shiver runs up the back of experienced men like Wheeler, Norris, and Borah.

They have seen through forty or fifty years experience, in school district meeting, town meeting, village, city and county government, and the other institutions of their own state, as they grew up and fought the almost daily battles of civil life, how the Constitution has solved almost every intricate problem and how adherence to it, and to the right only of the people to alter it, is indispensable.

Men may be extreme liberals politically, they may even be socialists, but unless their life has had little actual connection with men and government they will instinctively leap to the protection of the Constitution against evasive assault as well as direct fire.

And the reason for this is that our sort and form of government is truly the peoples, contains an avenue for the accomplishment of all popular demands—and yet—which is highly important—preserves the power of the people in as fresh and vigorous fashion as when General Washington took the first oath of office.

GENEROUS HUMANITY

On a recent Saturday morning a New York newspaper carried the story of a widow and fourteen children in dire want and near starvation. A few hours later gifts began to arrive—food, clothing, money, games for the younger children, offer of jobs for the three oldest. They came from well-to-do sympathizers and from people themselves hard up. By Monday the oldest son had asked that no more supplies be sent to the family. With the new jobs they could take care of themselves. The surplus of perishable foodstuffs, beyond their own power to consume, they gave to a neighborhood church for distribution to other needy families.

People are kind and generous. They respond to pleas for aid eagerly, and often beyond their own means, if the needs are concretely presented.

They do not respond so well to general appeals for Community Funds or work against the evils in society which cause poverty, illness and crime. They don't work together for the common welfare as they will work individually for obvious immediate need.

Thus we see it isn't that human beings are naturally selfish and that human nature can't be changed. It is only that so much of the time they don't understand. Enlightenment is what they need. Heads, not hearts are at fault.

PITY THE POOR PEDESTRIAN

The problem of traffic control is always with us. As death lists mount, the problem grows increasingly serious. Each municipality has its own peculiar problems. In each, various agencies bend their efforts to find solutions.

In all these multitudinous efforts, it sometimes appears that too little concern is displayed for the rights of pedestrians. A fundamental of traffic control is that jay-walking must be discouraged. Any campaign stresses that fact heavily.

There is no quarrel with the statement that the pedestrian must cooperate in making the streets more safe. But there is reason for belief that too frequently the pedestrian is given too little consideration.

The police departments, charged with traffic law enforcement, want primarily of course to reduce the number of accidents. Too, they want to keep traffic flowing. The automobile associations, prime movers in all campaigns to increase traffic safety, want to cut down the total of accident, another service to their memberships, but they too may be interested in speeding up the traffic flow. That is another obvious service to their memberships.

The poor pedestrian, lacking organization, is less vocal. Admittedly, he knows less about the problem of traffic regulation than the men whose task it is, less than the experts in the employ of the motor associations. He has ideas, however, and those ideas deserve consideration.

The pedestrian is not so interested in the speeding up of traffic. He wants control lights at crossings timed slowly enough to permit him to get across the street without putting on an uncomfortable burst of speed. He resents the right hand turn into traffic lanes against the red lights, in those cities where it is permitted, and the chance it offers that he will be run down as he steps off the curb. He believes there should be protection for jay-walkers where city blocks represent unusual distances.

The pedestrian is not an unreasonable fellow, ordinarily. All of us are occasional pedestrians. The pedestrian may lack an organization, now, but that such organizations may come is entirely conceivable.

MILITARY DRILL SUBSTITUTE

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology has hit upon a rational substitute for military training for conscientious objectors. The student with honest religious scruples against military drill and study is excused from it. But he must put the same amount of time into a course of international law, diplomacy, the causes of war and programs for peace.

In a number of educational institutions which formerly had compulsory military training, it has lately been made optional. There are others where students have no choice in the matter—except to attend a different college. Where state universities are involved, the issue is bitterly argued by both factions.

Much can be said for military training as an aid to discipline, physical fitness, and so on. Critics of compulsory drill in high schools and colleges object to the military point of view developed and the belligerent attitude often taken toward some foreign governments. They distrust the stress on war itself.

The M. I. T. plan offers a wise compromise. It sets young men to intelligent study of national defense through prevention of war. This work would benefit even the enthusiastic military drillers.

Opinions Of Others

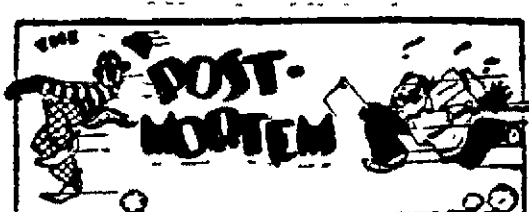

WAR OF THE SEXES

Senor Iturbi, the Spanish pianist, was in Toronto when he issued his condescending remarks about women as musicians, and we should advise him to keep on going toward the trackless frozen north.

Many husbands, doubtless, have got away with reading his words aloud to their wives, but he himself is likely to find resentment pursuing him for many a day. There is a glowing and unquenchable bitterness about the rivalry between women and men quite comparable to the Spanish war, but which certainly is not to be put down in any lesser category.

The musician simply waved women aside from important consideration as musicians. He found they lacked the physique and the temperament. They never can be great, as he views them.

Get them really stirred up, in our opinion, and they can be about anything they wish. That includes greatness, too. Women have taken no great umbrage at the old joke that they could never cook as well as the best male chefs; they didn't, as a class, feel very keen about cooking, anyway. But to deny them musical stature is a fighting challenge. If Senor Iturbi isn't diligent some angry and aroused woman musician will be stealing his audiences away from him.—New York World-Telegram.

THE blizzard, in these parts, was somewhat disappointing from the standpoint of good, old-fashioned blizzards . . . there was no 24-hour train service delay . . . no body reported drifting fifteen feet high . . . the usual crop of disaster stories that customarily follow such an affair was strangely missing . . . all in all, I would like to report that the seasonal blizzard has not yet happened and you might as well prepare for one that is a blizzard . . . the winter wouldn't be complete without it . . . watch for one along about Easter Sunday . . .

Best radio gag of the week—by Mary Livingston. "I gotta take a vacation. I'm not well." Benny: "Did you see the doctor?" Mary: "No, I read it in Winchell's column."

Which brings to mind an incident concerning Winchell. It seems that he, through special dispensation of the New York police, has a siren on his car and, when in Gotham and hearing of an incident worth covering, he roars down the street, with the siren going full blast.

Early one morning, Winchell was hot-wheeling it through New York, with a friend aboard. Suddenly, he stopped tooting the siren, although it had apparently been blasting for some time.

"How come?" asked the friend.

"My kids are asleep in that apartment up there," Winchell explained, "and I might wake them up."

THERE'S consideration for you.

Having dwelt before on the gabby one, I won't go into his career to any extent. As a matter of fact, I used to like him line until one season when I was editing AP feature material and other items released in advance of the publication date. You can imagine my surprise, some days later, to hear Winchell calmly break the AP release line and present the same dope as an exclusive scoop.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE SALVATION ARMY DRUM

I love the boom of the big bass drum
In the Salvation Army band.
As in the street on determined feet
For the Lord of the world they stand.

I love the sound of old-fashioned hymns
And the thought of the souls they save.
The sunbeams lean on the tambourine,
And the beat of the drum is brave.

I love the strength of the lived ideal
That is plain as the Lassies come
To the ill and poor, resolute and sure
As the boom of the Army drum.

I love the sound of the Army drum
And the service it typifies.
It rides the breeze with its harmonies
'Till it echoes in Paradise!

BODY FOR SALE

Last autumn a Hollywood artist gained some publicity as the author of a bizarre plan to freeze a human subject and then to restore life by thawing the frozen subject some months later. When news is scarce—

Nearly every month some one inquires where he or she can sell his body for scientific use—that is, the naive reader wishes to raise the sum in cash now, and surrender the body when he or she is through with it. Medical schools or individuals who may legitimately require cadavers can get all the material they want free of charge from public institutions where public charges die and no one claims or cares to bury the remains. State laws provide for this.

State laws should provide also for living material for scientific experimentation. Thousands of men and women now rotting in prisons should have the privilege of volunteering as subjects for scientific experimentation — and suitable recognition for this service to society or mankind should be accorded such convicts—say a reduction of the term of imprisonment.

Prisoners who have been given life or capital sentences should be available to qualified scientific investigators for tests of the curability of cancer, the incurability of leprosy by insect or other carrier. I am fairly cold-blooded, but I could hardly sanction or justify such experiments upon a volunteer whose free life is not already forfeit. Such experimentation on a prisoner who has been sentenced to life imprisonment or capital punishment would be entirely humane.

There are many experiments which are not particularly dangerous yet need doing for the benefit of humanity. Experiments in nutrition, diet, body chemistry, physiological action of medicines, anesthetics, antiseptics. Such experiments would not gravely affect the subject's health or well-being at worst they would cause only temporary discomfort or restriction.

At present we rely too much on animal experimentation and deduction by analogy, except in cases where courageous or unselfish individuals volunteer as subjects purely from love and devotion to science. The welfare and life of persons of that character should not be risked in that way. Not while equally good material rots in prisons supported by the people's good money. It is wrong to use valuable lives when lives of comparatively little value are available in prisons everywhere.

If the necessary legislation were enacted, probably a great many condemned criminals would be glad of the opportunity to get what consolation they might derive from serving society which they have unforgetfully offended.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — When somebody named Joan Folds won $19,000 prize money and a lot of kudos with a novel called "The Street of the Fishing Cat," nobody over here knew whether Joan was a man or a woman.

She turned out to be a Hungarian woman, and up to two years ago it seems she was occasionally very hungry.

Miss Folds lived, it appears, in the Street of the Fishing Cat when she was studying in Paris at the Sorbonne, unaware that some years later a group of publishers would enrich her with an international literary prize. Her novel is the story of a band of exiles from various countries who lived in the Rue du Chat-Quai-Neuf.

Miss Folds lived a while in London, and later was secretary of the Hungarian legation in Egypt. This didn't pay a lot; finally she returned to Budapest, where she started, to make a living with what they call "the pen."

The living was slim. A novel was published by a Budapest firm, and the poverty continued unabated. For two years she had frequent foodless days, some of these because she had a hound named Moka, and Moka had to be fed regardless. Then Miss Folds got a job as translator.

She worked 16 hours a day quite often, and before relief came she had translated 100 novels, chiefly from the English. But she and Moka had food; she insists that her publisher in this country make it clear that Moka is a purebred animal, by the way.

She finally married, and a week before she heard about the prize, her husband and she moved into a new flat on Gul Baba street, which is the steepest in Budapest. They had no money for a sofa, for rugs, or for anything else but the bare necessities.

The first 'bing Miss Folds did after the money arrived was to go out and buy something comfortable for the house. She's eating exactly what she wants, particularly petit fours. She's glad she need not hurry with her writing any more; she's starting a new book already and plans to do it with luxurious slowness.

And she's especially amused by one of the 200 telegrams of congratulations she got. This read "We are proud of you. Huj, huj, hajra."

In "The Mask of Kings," there is a punce will not give up his throne for a woman he loves. . . . A point of speculation has been whether the line will remain in the script. . . . It will. . . . However the word "Catholic" in "Jane Eyre" has been changed to "Christian" because a Chicago critic objected. . . . And in "Lilium" the word "Lutheran" was changed to "protestant" because of voiced objection.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon, from 1 to 3 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m. from 5 to 7 p. m. and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

Someone may try to bluff you into doing something against your wishes today. Calling a bluff sometimes scares the bluffer into common sense, as if drastic or misleading statements are made to you, it might be wise to combat them with spirited counter-replies. Courage must be a part of your moral equipment, with right principle as a supporting force, to make you confident you are taking the unaccountable way, you will find yourself successful in most of your proper stand. Probably, in some undertakings today, you may find yourself suddenly very popular.

Professor Albert Clark, professor of medicine at Sheffield university and George Albert Clark, professor of physiology at Sheffield, have discovered a preparation from egg-white which, when injected, reduces the clotting time of the blood and controls hemorrhage.

Describing their recent work in the British medical periodical, "The Lancet," the investigators emphasized, "No claim is made to hemophilia by the treatment suggested, but merely to control hemorrhage and ameliorate the general condition."

Dr. Timperley, "The Lancet" said, found that if egg-white were incubated at 37 degrees centigrade for several days in the presence of potassium bromide, it was possible to extract from the mixture a substance whose addition to blood led to the formation of a clear gel which did not shrink like the ordinary blood clot.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, can blush like a school girl.

He did it when suddenly he was put on the spot at the opening of arguments on constitutionality of the Wagner labor act.

Morris Ernst, Newspaper Guild attorney, arose with Solicitor General Stanley Reed as The Associated Press case opened and asked for 20 minutes of court time to backstop the government.

Seemingly taken by surprise, Hughes hesitated for several seconds, face reddening. Only a day or two before the president had intimated pointedly that Hughes and five other elderly justices should get off the court and out of the way of the Wagner act and like measures.

Hughes finally remarked that a "very liberal" allowance of three hours and a half, had been made to the government and opposing counsel for their arguments. If the government wished to share its time with Mr. Ernst, the court would permit it.

It was a neat parrty and put upon Solicitor Reed the job of telling Ernst, who stood beside him, that he couldn't have any of the government's time. But operators saw the disappointment among those observers who thought Ernst, author of a recent book on the court and constitution and a liberalist crusader, might have done quite as well as government counsel.

"All Aboard!"
Any street car motorman could run the senate subway cars connecting the office building and capitol under the plaza, but there is a stern additional requirement. Operators must know at sight all 96 senators. They have right of way on the cars.

When a senator gets aboard, the car must start—even if some humble character has foot in air to climb on. But operators may keep the laity waiting while finishing a smoke at the end of the line.

"Art Destroyed"
Years ago some ribald wit clipped out a picture of a nude and pasted it on the wall of the press room in the treasury building. The place quickly grew into a gallery of such clippings, many made exceptionally tart by apt headlines pasted alongside.

Recently the WPA came along with a cleanup project, scraped the walls free of "art" and painted them a billious gray-green.

Masculine treasury reporters were pretty upset by it. For long years the art display has discouraged visits by women reporters. Since its removal, the masculine veterans complain, the "gal" reporters have drifted in freely.

Here and There Around World

SNEER AT RAZOR

Vienna — (P) — Orders that Austrian soldiers, for the first time in history, must carry toothbrushes and safety razors are received with scorn by veteran officers.

"The Turks were stopped without toothbrushes," they say. "But it is the razors which strike hardest at hoary Austrian military tradition. Before the World war, with whiskered Emperor Franz Josef as their model, many officers cultivated luxuriant beards."

With the addition of a razor and toothbrush, the weight of the Austrian infantryman's pack is brought up to an estimated 60 pounds. This includes his rifle, blankets and an emergency supply of food.

Veterans of the World war observe tartly that the modern soldier "carries a household on his back."

If a woman and February 24 is your birthday, your love of excitement may make you recklessly adventurous. You are, perhaps, a bit too independent for your own good. Pets of all sorts ought to interest you, and flowers may be one of your favorite hobbies. You are apt to be much happier living in the country or a suburban town than in a large city. Do not make the mistake of confiding your private affairs to casual acquaintances, because you may discover too late how unwise it is. You should be very popular with men, for you probably can see things from their viewpoint. You may have a decided talent for painting, writing, dancing, teaching or acting. Kaukauna The weekly drubbing getting now to be almost ritualistic, given a local quintet by an outside squad and a game in which neither team could find enough players in the bleachers to count up to five featured the action in the Industrial league last night in the high school gymnasium.

Gustmans Chevrolets' position as league leaders in Kaukauna didn't mean anything to the Andrews Oils from Green Bay. It meant so little in fact that the visitors sped away with the game, winning 45-26. Vincent, their forward, netted eight field goals and two free throws and Schaus, his running mate, five baskets. Koch, Gustman center, marked up 11 points to lead the Kaukauna team.

When the Young Men's Club and Goldin Metals, scheduled for a game, started counting noses they each had enough for a male quartet. They went ahead, though. The Young Men won 32-26, each of the four players making two baskets which meant either that every one was a high point man or there wasn't any.

Share Scoring
Goldin Metals didn't share their scoring with each other quite as unselfishly. Eiting, forward, got five baskets and three field goals for exactly half his team's total. No one had to leave the game on fouls. Referee Schwankne realizing that four men is bad enough but three would look like they were waiting for someone.

The high-geared Kaukauna frosh team took another victory on their season's chart by squashing the St. John yearlings of Little Chute 25-7. Since it was a night for whacking up points and generally unorthodox basketball all around, five of the Kaw lads each made two baskets, but Alger added two free throws to take scoring laurels.

PARTIES BRIGHTEN DAYS IN NICOLET KINDERGARTEN

There's nothing like a party to brighten up the time children are in the kindergarten, Miss Cordell Runtz, Nicolet kindergarten director, has found. They were in the midst of such a festive event at the Nicolet school in Kaukauna when the above picture was taken. It's unusual for a photographer to drop in, but the children were quite enquired in the fun and didn't mind the intrusion.

Police Halt Dangerous Ice-Cake 'Riding' Stunt

Kaukauna — A new winter sport, riding cakes of ice as they float down the Fox river, was introduced here last Saturday morning by a group of about 12 danger-defying youths ranging from ten to fifteen years of age.

Their fun was stopped by Police Chief James McFadden, but while it lasted it provided the boys with thrills and the chance spectators with chills.

The youths first gathered at the river's edge just below the Lawe street bridge and with poles broke off large chunks of ice from the mass lining the shore. Two or three of the young adventurers would then hop on a cake and float down the river much in the manner of the lumberjacks who rode the logs during spring runs of bygone days.

When the loose cakes reached the solid shelf of ice near the railroad bridge, about two blocks down the river, the human cargo would jump off, run to shore, and race back to their starting point for another voyage. Chief McFadden put an end to their sport in which the danger of slipping off the floes and being swept under solid ice was apparent.

CANCELS SPEECH
Kaukauna — Because of the uncertain condition of the roads, George P. Hambrecht, state director of vocational guidance, was unable to make the trip from Madison to address the Knights of Columbus held last night. He will talk to the group at a later date, officers said.

D. A. R. Has Washington Day Party

HONORING the memory of George Washington, members of the Appleton chapter of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution gathered yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. G. Wheeler, 810 E. College avenue, for their annual Washington's birthday luncheon, their main social event of the year.

Mrs. Wheeler's home was attractively decorated for the affair with groups of red, white and blue flags in the entrance hall and living room. On the luncheon table were spring flowers, and at each small table, a rosebud. The place-cards showed silver silhouettes of Martha Washington.

Neenah—Declaring that no individual, however brilliant, can do effective work alone, Mrs. Mrs. W. Z. Stuart, state regent, Daughters of American Revolution, expressed her conviction that the two young women, Ged Kuehmstedt and Grace Tippler, winners of the good citizenship contest sponsored by the D. A. R., would always be a credit to the Neenah chapter, following her presentation of the medals to the girls at a special anniversary meeting at the Stuart home at 406 E. Wisconsin avenue Monday afternoon.

It was not only Washington's birthday anniversary but the ninth anniversary of the organization of the Neenah chapter, D. A. R., yesterday, and a special meeting for observation of the anniversaries and the presentation of the medals was called by Mrs. Stuart. Miss Ged Kuehmstedt, a graduate of the class of 1936, Neenah High school, and now a student at the University of Wisconsin, was chosen by her schoolmates and faculty members as the student who best deserved the honor last year. From the class of 1937, Miss Grace Tippler, received the greatest number of votes. Her name will be sent to John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, as the Neenah candidate and her name will be placed with others from which group, one name will be chosen by lot. The winner will represent Wisconsin at the National Congress of the D. A. R. in Washington, D. C., in April.

The 48 states will be represented by a girl from each state and during the stay in Washington, the young people will be entertained as guests of the D. A. R., taken on tours in the city and its environs, and entertained at the White House. Last year the group was entertained at tea by Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt.

Qualifications for winning the medals include honor under which are the traits of honesty, high principles, trustworthiness, punctuality, moral strength and stability, cleanliness in mind and body, service which embodies cooperation, meritorious behavior bringing honor to school and community, kindness, unselfishness, true Americanism, individual responsibility to home, country and God; courage, leadership and scholarship.

It was pointed out by Mrs. Stuart that last year it was not clearly understood that the medals could be secured and presented by the local chapter. "It was especially fitting that Miss Kuehmstedt received the medal last year for she was the only member in the class whose mother was a member of the D. A. R." A luncheon was served following the meeting.

Orchestra To Present Guion Suite

"BRUDDER Sinkiller an' His Flock o' Sheep," a negro pastor in his Southern homeland setting, will come to life Thursday evening on the stage of Memorial chapel when the Lawrence college symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Percy Fullinwider, professor of violin, gives its first concert of the season.

"Brudder Sinkiller" is one of three amusing characters who appear in the Guion suite, "Alley Tunes" which Dr. Fullinwider's charges will present for the first time locally. "The Lonesome Whistler," and "The Harmonica Player" are the other two.

Not content with presenting one new and highly original number on his program, Dr. Fullinwider has included also a suite by the modern American composer Powell, "At the Fair," from "Sketches of American Fun." "The Merry-Go-Round" and "Circusland Beauty" are the two characters presented in this group.

Dr. Fullinwider himself recently described the "Brudder Sinkiller" music thus: "All the characters of a negro camp-meeting at their. You hear Brudder Sinkiller preaching, you hear the walls of the repentant on the mourners bench, you hear the pious Amens of an elderly sister throughout the service. The music pictures the triumphant shouts of Hallelujah at the close of the preaching and the singing of a spiritual."

The two "Sketches of American Fun" promise an equally interesting musical treat. These two groups form, with the "March and Procession of Bacchus," from Delibes' "Sylvia Ballet," what promises to be a most unusual and interesting conclusion to the concert Thursday evening. The first half of the program presents a Mendelssohn overture, two brief Bach numbers, and Mozart's Symphony Number 39, one of the most charming of all the German master's tuneful music.

Nutrition Is Next Problem Facing Dairy Industry Says Greene in Talk Before Club

WITH sanitation and safety accomplished, the dairy industry's new problem is nutrition, Howard T. Greene, Genesee Depot dairy farmer and one time candidate for governor, said last night at a dinner meeting at the First Congregational church under the auspices of the Men's club.

Lands that have been farmed for 80 years have lost much of the mineral matter, he explained, and since milk and other dairy products are derived in the final analysis from the soil, they have lost some of their nutritional value through the years. One day Mr. Greene asked a Japanese veterinarian on his large farm if the people of his country had always been small of stature. The man answered that the old armor of the Japanese was made to fit men of six feet and over. This change during the centuries is attributed by Mr. Greene to the fact that the soil of Japan has become badly depleted by constant cultivation.

Scientific farming, Mr. Greene declared, can save America from a similar fate. He praised the soil conservation acts of the government as decidedly helpful in that respect, and went on to advocate the adding of phosphorus and potash to the soil. He also said that it would cost less than one-twentieth of a cent a quart to feed the cows enough iodine to give the milk a normal amount of that element, pointing out that the milk in South Carolina, where the land is near the sea, has 600 parts of iodine per billion, while that in Wisconsin has only from 200 to 300 parts per billion.

Another new aim of dairying is to give winter milk the growth-producing qualities of summer milk, Mr. Greene said. In summer, he explained, when the cows feed on fresh, green grass, the milk is more yellow in color and contains a great deal more Vitamin A than it does in winter. But science has now found ways, including artificially dried hay, that will give winter milk the same amount of the important vitamin.

A New Science "Farming is a new science that has the greatest future for men and women of intelligence," Greene said. "It will be a profitable business for those who can attend to it, but it is not a life of ease. The new agriculture of this nation is going to get rid of land that isn't fertile and that isn't worth making fertile. Good land intelligently operated is going to be profitable, because the public is demanding food of proper nutritional value."

When he opened his talk, Mr. Greene paid tribute to George Washington on his birthday anniversary by reading several entertaining excerpts from the latter's diary. Washington was the greatest farmer of his day, Greene said, and the recordings in his diary gave evidence.

The speaker was introduced by C. C. Nelson, toastmaster, who read a

COUNTY PIONEERS ELECT OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING
The Outagamie County Pioneer association elected the above men as officers, making their choices Monday noon to represent each city with members in the group. L. F. Nelson, Kaukauna, seated, was named president to succeed Robert F. McGillan, Appleton. A. L. Collar, Hortonville, left, was named first vice president; and Sarto Balliet, Appleton, center, was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Nick Bruhl, Sherwood, at right, was renamed second vice president. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Early Days in Appleton Are Recalled by Pioneers At Annual Gathering Here

BY NELLIE CHAMBERLAIN
Appleton became again a primitive community in the wilderness of Wisconsin when folks felt neighborly to anyone living within a radius of fifty miles as members of Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical society listened to each other or recall the early days of the county, the hardships and the pleasures, and most of all the friendliness of the first settlers yesterday afternoon at the society's annual meeting at Castle hall.

The overwhelming majority of gray heads at the meeting was ample proof that these pioneers and sons and daughters of pioneers knew whereof they spoke, and as each of the volunteers speaker arose and told of some almost-forgotten incident of the early days, heads nodded in approval or in reminiscent mood and smiles wreathed the faces of many as they heard a familiar name or landmark mentioned in the story. Buildings long since torn down or ravaged by the hand of time stood again in their imaginations as monuments to the progress and thriftiness of Outagamie county pioneers. And scattered through the audience were some who could testify to having lived all their lives in the houses in which they were born.

Reviews Events
Miss Elizabeth Wilson, who is engaged in recording the history of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Wisconsin conference for the period between 1832 and 1848, went back some years before her birth to review events connected with the early history of the church around Kaukauna and recall that the Presbyterian teacher and Methodist preacher cooperated so well in their work that eventually they were married. She asked for information as to the location of the first Methodist church in Kaukauna, stating that it is recorded that a log building was dedicated there in 1835 but that she has never been able to learn just where it stood.

Miss Aimee Baker told an anecdote, about her mother, who as a small girl attending school was punished for having acquired too many "black marks" against her by being locked in a third floor room with another girl during the noon hour while everyone else was at lunch, and the subsequent trouble over the punishment because of the possibility of fire breaking out while the girls were locked in.

State Factory
The state factory which his father built in 1847 was mentioned by Elmer E. Dunn who pointed out that his uncle, James Hutchinson, established the Appleton Woolen mills here. He spoke of a number of Appleton residents who were born within a block of Castle hall, among them Charles Boyd, Will Ryan and Miss Ada Myers.

Others who gave short reminiscences were Miss Josephine Briggs whose father, Anson Briggs, founded a planing mill in Appleton in 1849, and Miss Ella Rynders, Hortonville, who was born in Ellington and whose grandfather was the first town chairman of Ellington. The latter suggested that the society hold meetings at Hortonville next summer. Some amusing stories of his grandfathers and uncle were told by R. F. McGillan who acted as chairman of the meeting.

Seek Documents
Dr. W. F. Raney, professor of English and European history at Lawrence college, speaking on behalf of the college, asked the members of the society who have old documents or pictures pertaining to the early history of Lawrence to gather them in preparation for the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the college which will take place in several years. W. E. Smith asked that those having early Outagamie country pictures bring them to Dr. Raney to add to the collection which he showed the early part of the afternoon.

A resolution to the effect that if the Outagamie county board purchase the Grignon home at Kaukauna, the Pioneer and Historical society take the responsibility of its maintenance was passed by the group yesterday afternoon, and it was voted that the president of the society appoint a committee of five to act with the directors in acquiring the Grignon residence.

Make A Shrine
L. F. Nelson, Kaukauna, new president of the society, endorsed the suggestion of one of the members that this house be made into a shrine or museum for Outagamie county, and mentioned some old pieces which belong to the Grignon family and could be brought back and put on display there. E. P. Grignon described some silver spoons or ladles which were forged from silver coins and which could be brought back from California and placed in the Kaukauna residence.

The rest of yesterday's program consisted of a reading by Mrs. John Hughes who dressed in an old-fashioned bonnet and dress, told humorously of learning to ice skate, selections by the Sod' Busters, an orchestra of young people who played and sang; a Dutch dance by Beverly Rehmer and Buddy Kohl; and a song and dance by Lolly Kohl. The meeting closed with the entire group singing "Till We Meet Again" after which the closing prayer was given by the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor of First Congregational church.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mr. McGillan for his work as president of the society during the last year.

Build About College
Although the history of Appleton is closely allied with the building of Lawrence college, water power as evidenced by a small falls in the early 1800s was sufficient incentive for persons to build a city on the present site even if no college was erected. L. F. Raney, Lawrence college, told members of the society.

Slides depicting early Appleton scenes and prominent persons connected with the city's progress were shown to illustrate the "Old Appleton" address given by Mr. Raney.

Lawrence college was located at its present site only after Amos Lawrence, owning about four or five thousand acres of land in the Green Bay area, was induced by the Methodist church to give his support to a location in this territory. Mr. Raney said. Mr. Lawrence had attempted to persuade the church officials to build the college on the land which he owned and which was a sum of money he was willing to donate to the college, he stated.

Three Villages
The city of Appleton originated as three separate villages with the name chosen because Mrs. Lawrence's maiden name was Appleton, the speaker pointed out. The first college building was started in the fall of 1846 and was ready for occupancy in November, 1849, with it being located near the site where the conservatory of music is now situated, he said.

One slide shown during the lecture was of a home built by Rerie DuCharme in 1791 and located just behind the present historic Grignon home at Kaukauna. The building was torn down by the Grignons in 1890.

Motion Picture Club Sees Movies Made by Members

THE premiere of the first motion picture produced by the newly organized Appleton Motion Picture society, composed of young people interested in amateur movies, took place Sunday night at the home of Sidney Blinder, 621 N. Lawa street. The movie was entitled "The Birth of an Idea."

Other movies shown at this time were three versions of "Frankenstein" and a "super-thriller" known as "Dead Mockery." At the conclusion of the meeting, a copy of the first photoplay which was made in 1933 under the title, "The Great Train Robbery," was shown.

Those who attended the premiere were the six persons who organized the club, namely, Kenneth Day, William Felton, Sidney Blinder, Paul Grignon, James Wood and William Mehring. New members who joined the society at this time include Ernest Moore, Betty White, Theo Wassenberg, Audrey Leemer, Patricia Van Rooy and Maxine Kampf.

DOUST THAT COLD

-Roots and All-Give It No Chance to Sprout Anew!

Take no cold lightly! The so-called "common cold" is often the start of more serious trouble—flu and pneumonia, for example.

Treat a cold to root it, not merely to subdue it!

Depend on no half-way measures. A cold, being an internal infection, must be got at from the inside.

Treat a cold with a cold preparation, not with a medicine good for all kinds of ailments.

The wise treatment is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Expressly For Colds!
Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

It is also internal treatment and of four important effects.

First, Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, a desirable step in the treatment of colds.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

The Action Called For
These are the four effects a cold calls for and of Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain.

The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Be wise—play safe! The moment you feel a cold coming on, go right to your drugstore for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That procedure will often break up a cold in 24 hours.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask for, and insist upon, Grove's Bromo Quinine. The cost is small, but the stake is large.

Conflicting Systems Spoil Bridge Games

(Copyright, 1937, Ely Culbertson)
 "Dear Mr. Culbertson: Before submitting this hand for your analysis, I must explain that I was playing with a charming young woman, but an inexperienced player. When we sat down to play (no stakes involved) I asked the opponents politely what system they followed, and they ignored the question. My partner knew that they were using the one club artificial system, but did not advise me until after the following hand had been dealt by East, I being in the South position:

East, dealer.
 North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:
 East South West North
 1 club Double 1 spade 2 hearts
 2 spades 4 clubs Pass Pass

"I don't care so much for an analysis of the East-West bidding, but I would like an explanation of how North-South should bid the hand. "First of all, I must admit that I had a rather weak double over a one club opening bid. However, I held a freashish hand and always could run to hearts. Over West's one spade my partner now bid two hearts, thus becoming a free bidder, a fact which I believe she later forgot, but which was most important to me in subsequent events. When East bid three spades I sensed she was trying to shut me out. If my partner's two heart bid were honest, I was convinced that there was a small slam in the hand. I could bid five hearts, but I was afraid my partner would pass, and I also was afraid to jump directly to six hearts, which I wished later I had done. I chose to bid four clubs, believing that would force my partner to bid again. However, she, afterward explained that opponents were using the artificial one club bid, which was her reason for passing my four club bid.

"Had I been playing North, I believe I would have passed West's one spade bid to see what would happen, sensing that we must be getting the opponents into a ticklish situation. However, that would have left South strictly up against it if East bid three or four spades. Of course, I made four clubs, but the small slam and high card value in diamonds, which would be worthless in a heart slam. But since, according to South's own estimate, North was an inexperienced player, it would have been far better to have taken this gamble rather than possibly be misinterpreted.

South wanted to be ultraconservative, he could bid merely five hearts over three spades, and usually good impression, they are slow to take her up.

North, with the hand actually held, should go to six. But the best of all bids under the circumstances was a direct slam call of six hearts. Since South held a seven card club suit, whether North held one, two or three clubs, there should be no losers in the suit.

 Question: Partner opened with one diamond. Next hand passed. What is the proper response for third hand with the following:

Landmarks May Go in Capitol Face-Lifting

Washington (AP)—Tourists will miss familiar architectural features of the capitol if the $4,000,000 bill now pending in congress to give the building a "face-lifting" is enacted.

Among them are the steps on which Presidents have stood to deliver their inaugural addresses, the spot over which George Washington laid the cornerstone, the Thomas Jefferson cornstalk pillar at the east entrance, and the scroll and art work in front.

English starlings invaded west Texas this winter for the first time in the memory of bird observers. The birds, regarded as pests, were introduced into the United States from Europe in 1890.

Forehead Revealed

While Norma Shearer's coiffure was created for her Juliet role, it is similar to the off-the-forehead styles so smart at the present time. Miss Shearer recommends hot oil shampoos for hair health. After it is dressed, she sprays it with a little liquid brillantine to keep the stray hairs in place.

When Flood Waters Rise

WHEN FLOOD WATERS RISE
 When first reports came of rising floods in the headwaters of the Ohio river last month, few persons, if any, thought there would be great damage. Winter in western Pennsylvania and in Ohio usually provides a great deal of snow, but not much rain. A flood of great size is not expected in January.

Refugees outside Chinese police station during flood.

As it turned out, however, the flood grew into a terrible disaster. Within two weeks it had swept down the Ohio valley to the Mississippi, drowning several hundred persons and driving more than a million from their homes. In many places rain had kept falling, falling, falling. One weather station reported 23 inches of rain in 26 days. The frozen soil did not "drink up" the water as soil does in summer. The rain and melting snow sent more and more water into little streams flowing into big rivers. The rivers turned into torrents, with power to destroy. The loss of life was not nearly so great as in some of the world's past floods. If the same volume of water swept through China, it probably would have drowned many thousands of human beings. As we look back over history, we find that floods have taken a heavy toll in many lands. England, France, Spain, Holland, Denmark, Poland, Germany, Peru, Mexico, Java, Sumatra, Japan, China and India are among the nations which have had big floods during the past 500 years. Of all nations in Europe, Holland has suffered most. In Holland, the intruding sea has been the greater danger. With much of their country lower than sea level, the Dutch have had to trust dikes to hold the water back, but sometimes the dikes have failed. Half a century before Columbus crossed the Atlantic, 100,000 persons in the Netherlands died in a flood. Another disaster, with about equal loss of life, took place there in the year 1521. During the past two centuries, the Dutch have been more careful and have not had any flood with nearly such great loss of life.

The worst floods during modern times have happened in China and India. In 1876 a mighty sea wave swept over cities and villages along the coast of Bengal, a region of north-eastern India, and drowned about 200,000 people. China's floods have come mainly from overflowing rivers. The Yellow river and the Yangtze have taken the lives of millions during the past half century.

Love Is Communication Between Parents, Child

BY ANGELO PATRI
 "I can't understand it. Here we are, sacrificing ourselves to give the children every advantage and they are anything but grateful. If I had had Caroline's chance when I was her age I'd have been a concert singer. But she won't touch her music lesson unless I force her to it. And sit by her every minute, poking her on."

"Just the same with Henry. We are trying to give him the education that will make him a good lawyer, and does he thank us? He told us last week that he is not going to law school. He is going to go to some business school instead and learn to manage a business. After we have done our very best to help him to a fine position he tells us he is going to go into business. His father says, "Why not?" But I'm about heartbroken. I hoped that one or the other of them might amount to something."

When a father or mother talks that way you can be certain that what they wanted for their children was something they had dreamed of having for themselves in the days of their youth. They have always thought this to be the greatest good that could come to a young person. They want that good for their children. But they overlook the most important point in the whole scheme. Their children are not interested in their parents' cherished desires. They have some of their own pressing upon them.

Caroline does not want to be a concert singer. She likes to sing about the house and join with other young people in their songs, but beyond that she has no thought of singing. She really wants to get married as soon as she can and rear a family of children. "I want at least five children," she says. "They'll be such fun. All boys. I think I like boys better than girls."

Time will modify Caroline's ideas, no doubt, but the main idea of marriage and motherhood is likely to stick. Why not? It is a very sane, happy outlook for a young girl to have. Had she a dislike for marriage and motherhood it would be very sad. Why not accept it and help the child to prepare intelligently for her future?

If the boy wants a business education why not let him have it? He will be all the better for it in whatever field he works. The world moves along under the pressure of work, which is another name for business, which is another name for work well organized. A good business man is a great asset to the community and every one of them that is turned out of the good business colleges is just one more to the good.

Work is a personal expression, or it is a deadly imposition that wrecks the happiness of the worker and disturbs the peace of the family and the community. It is sad to see a devoted parent battling against the work instincts of his children in order to satisfy his own hungry long suppressed. In his mistaken belief that he is conferring great happiness upon his children he is killing their greatest joy, their own work, personally elected, personally fulfilled.

It is hard to accept one of the hardest facts of life—one that all parents must accept in the end: Children are individuals with hopes, powers and characteristics apart from their parents. They are as much separate individuals, as much distinct and individual beings as the children of the neighbors are. The one means of com-

Cleansing Helps Keep Skin Fresh

BY ELSIE PIERCE

THE skin can be likened to the body in its essential needs. We cleanse our bodies for the sake of health and for the sake of our aesthetic sense. We exercise our bodies to keep the muscles in tone. We nourish our bodies in order to keep the machinery going, to provide lubrication and fuel—in other words—energy.

Just so with the skin. We cleanse it because scrupulous cleansing gives us a feeling of fitness. We cleanse it because that is the first essential step toward skin health and beauty. Cleansing keeps the skin clear and fresh. Cleansing keeps dust and grime from working its way into the pores causing all sorts of salient defects such as clogged pores, blackheads, enlarged pores, blemishes. So you see how closely allied skin health and our aesthetic sense really are.

Now for the second step—exercise. Just as we exercise our bodies to preserve the elasticity of our muscles so we should exercise the muscles of face and neck. The facial muscles actually get less of a workout than the rest of the body. They, therefore, need artificial exercise. Such exercise is provided by patting with tonic or astringent, by molding with creams. This artificial workout has quite the same effect on face and neck muscles as motion has on the muscles of the body. The more muscles are kept in "tone" the more quickly do they respond to quick adjustment; the more readily do they expand and contract and keep their firmness.

As we have often repeated in this column, muscles can be likened to an elastic band. An elastic that is "young" and has spring to it can readily expand and then contract to its normal size and shape. An elastic that has lost its spring soon becomes limp and lifeless. Chin and neck exercises are excellent to keep the contour firm. Chewing is fine for the purpose. The simple exercise of slowly, with resistance, bringing the head back until it rests near the shoulder blades, then slowly moving it forward until chin rests on chest is good. Combine moulding with cream and patting with tonic with these exercises, and you have a perfect threesome to preserve that clear-cut line of your face.

Our third step is nourishing. And just as you regulate your diet according to weight, so you should regulate your nourishing cream according to the oil content of the skin. The dry skin needs lavish creaming. The oily skin very little. The delicate tissue around the eyes is seldom oily. It should be creamed lightly to keep it wrinkle-free.

LETTERS ASKING ABOUT NAMES

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it considered rude to ask over a business telephone, "Who is calling, please?" An office associate insists that it is not being courteous of people will criticize our office.

Answer: In the first place, particularly those who seldom telephone your office should give their names without having to be asked for them, and when they don't it is absolutely necessary in most cases to ask for the name.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it bad form when meeting some one for the second time, to say, "I've already had this pleasure." It seems rather ungracious not to say something more communication between grown children and their parents is the love that lies between them. After that the wall. Cherish the love and avoid the wall.

Church Is Easiest Door To Making New Friends

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I read with sympathy the letter in your column recently from a girl who had married and moved to a strange city to live and who was very lonely. I have been through the same experience and perhaps what I learned about making acquaintances and friends may help her and others with this problem. This is what I found:

DOROTHY DIX

First in importance is making contacts, and that one must do oneself. The church is perhaps the best place to go to approach and surest of opening, but just going to church is not enough. One must identify oneself with the church and its activities. I went to the minister of the church I selected and told him that I was a stranger. He put me in touch with groups within the church, where I could find an opportunity to meet people. I joined the Sunday school. Ladies Aid, etc. In that way I made many acquaintances and a few friends.

Then there are many school groups open to any one in the community. I joined a gym class sponsored by the Mothers' club of a school and made a few friends there. This group also had various benefits which I attended, such as teas, book reviews, etc.

There are also "causes" that are always glad to have willing workers. I was interested in the peace movement, so I called the woman in charge of this work and was welcomed with open arms. Likewise the local philanthropic groups are eager for help. Such work as sewing for the Red Cross, the hospital, etc., offer unusual opportunities for meeting worth-while women. Then there are "W" activities, where groups meet and where you are brought in contact with agreeable and intelligent women.

These are a few of many examples where a woman can make an entry without the aid of others. It cannot be emphasized too strongly, however, that the group must be attended regularly, because it is only after people have a chance to get acquainted with you that they will make a move toward a personal friendship. Don't be aggressive or seek to put yourself forward, but if you are asked to serve on a committee always accept, because this brings you to the notice of others.

In a group be friendly and interested in those around you, but don't run after strangers. It scares people off. Don't complain of your loneliness. Don't abuse the city you are living in and tell why you don't like it and how superior your home town is. If possible, dress smartly, because a woman is largely judged by her clothes. If you can't afford expensive gowns, be well groomed. Be as pleasant as possible at all times and establish the reputation of being a willing and competent helper. Don't ask women to come to see you until they suggest it. Everybody is afraid of a pusher.

Don't feel that you are ignored because people make no overtures of friendship as soon as they meet you. The average woman has a fully occupied social life and, unless the newcomer can make an unter-in-law to my group of best girl friends? She is young, too, but a stranger to them. In fact, she's practically a stranger to me, although I feel as though I've known her, having heard so much about "Mary" from the brother who has just married her.

Answer: To your most intimate friends you would say, "This is John's wife, Mary" (pause) and Mary, this is Ruth Brown, Mary Green, Sally Black," etc.

Court Proposal Eyed by Pegler With Suspicion

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—I have read hundreds of columns of argument and comment on the supreme court thing and my impression is that these others are merely expressing their own well-known prejudices and don't know any more about it than I do.

My own attitude, and it is just an attitude and not a well-informed conclusion, is one of suspicion, because I know for a certainty that Mr. Roosevelt keeps some pretty dirty political company around the country, especially in Chicago, Kansas City and Louisiana. And when Homer Cummings has the gall to plead the president's case against the court, I want to ask him once more just what caused the change of atmosphere in New Orleans which decided his department to abandon the prosecution of the income tax indictments against Huey Long's boys after Huey's death and the great political reconciliation. After Mr. Cummings disposes of that satisfactorily I can listen to him on the subject of a branch or department of the government which has always seemed to me to be much cleaner than his own.

The mere lapse of time doesn't blur the reality of the unfinished business in New Orleans, where the federal court system found indictments which were held as a club over the political opponents of the administration as long as the opposition lived, but were quietly tossed out the window when the opposition made peace. The dismissal makes it appear that the federal courts were put to political purposes in Louisiana, and the whole case gives me to suspect that the president might use the supreme court similarly if he should ever get control of it. He terms Louisiana Case A Pretty Raw One

That Louisiana case was pretty raw. Huey was giving the president plenty of trouble down there, but the boys in Washington thought they had him over a barrel in the income tax matter. So either they were using the law and the court for political coercion in the first place or they quit cold for political peace in the second place, which would have been just as bad.

It isn't as though they had ever given any reasonable explanation. The announcement just said the cases were being dropped because of a change of atmosphere, which strikes me as a plea of guilty. This kind of doing is all reminiscent of Huey's own methods, and the packing of the courts was one of his favorite tricks, too. When Huey wanted to bear down on an opponent in Louisiana, he would go over the man's tax accounts and drive him crazy or into bankruptcy or surrender. If the fellow surrendered, the grudge died and everything was hotsy-totsy. And now everything is hotsy-totsy between the administration and Mr. Long's old boys in New Orleans. But in view of the political enmity it should have been left to the juries to decide whether the indictments were

Propose U. S. Should Pay for Public Services

Make Survey to Determine What Fair Amounts Would be

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Appleton may collect what virtually amounts to taxes from the federal government if congress passes favorably on a proposal which it is understood will be presented for consideration sometime this session.

While federal property is not taxable the government can pay for public services such as fire and police protection, streets and street lighting, sewage disposal and other modern public facilities furnished by local governments gratis to Uncle Sam.

A committee appointed by the president, including Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and Acting Director of the Budget Daniel W. Bell, has been quietly at work for the past several months on the proposal, it is understood.

Their representatives have been surveying all federal real property with a view to determining real estate actually owned by the government and what would be a fair federal payment to local governments for their public services, free to the federal government but paid for out of local taxes.

Strenuous opposition of local authorities in certain cities where housing or slum clearance projects were proposed is understood to be the basis for the government's study. While authorities had no objection to Uncle Sam replacing slums with modern dwellings they did object to removal of entire city blocks from tax rolls.

Legislation which became law in the last session of congress provides that the Public Works Administration may reimburse communities for such public services. The present study was prompted by this legislation, and it is reported that the data is in the course of final preparation for submission to congress. Assisting the President's committee are the Procurement Division, the Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Forest Service. It is reported that the rate-payment will apply only to federal property employing the public services mentioned.

Your Income Tax

DEDUCTION FOR TAX ON MOTOR CARS

If an automobile is used for both business and pleasure, all of the maintenance and operating expenses connected therewith, which constitute allowable deductions for Federal income - tax purposes, should be allocated to the two uses on the basis of the time that it is used for each. For example, if the total expense of operation and maintenance, plus depreciation, for the taxable year amounted to $800, and the car was used three-fourths of the time for business and the balance of the time for pleasure, the allowable deduction for Federal income-tax purposes would be $600.

If a law which imposes a tax on gasoline shows that the tax is imposed on the consumer and not on the dealer, the consumer may deduct as a tax, for Federal income-tax purposes, the amount of the gasoline tax paid by him; but the taxpayer must have kept records of the payment of such taxes in order that the deduction may be substantiated as is required by the law and the regulations. The Federal gasoline tax is not deductible by the consumer. A taxpayer may ascertain whether the gasoline tax imposed by a State is deductible by addressing an inquiry to the collector of internal revenue for his district.

In any case where the gasoline purchased is used for business purposes the tax may be added to the cost of the gasoline and deducted as a business expense; but where that is done, the gasoline tax cannot be deducted separately under the item of taxes.

DELLIS CRANE, working on the assembly line, has been on the Buick payroll for 20 years

SPEAKING for myself and 16,000 other Buick workmen—we're mighty glad to be back on the job! It's been tough to stand by, knowing how eager thousands of people were to get one of these great cars. And it's a grand feeling now to see the wheels turning and the line rolling, and to watch those big, handsome babies pouring out regular as clockwork! There's power in them, and style, and comfort—and when you see them made, like I do, you know they're packed with good, honest workmanship as well as top-notch engineering. We're proud of those Buicks, and the way you've taken to them, and we're going to get yours to you as quick as we can.

"It's Buick again!"

tion in history, and to see national defense costs reach a new peace-time high.

He had been handicapped by failing health for the last year. He had served in the house since 1913, becoming appropriations chairman in March, 1933, when the late Joseph W. Byrnes was elevated to Democratic floor leader.

Buchanan first was elected to congress in 1913, and had served longer than all but nine of his fellow house members. He was born on a South Carolina plantation in 1864, but moved with his family to Texas shortly afterward.

He was graduated in law from Texas university, and later served as Washington county (Texas) attorney and as a state legislator.

Speaker Bankhead said Buchanan was "a useful and courageous man," and Representative Rayburn (D-Texas), house majority leader, called him "a man of fine ability who rendered great service to his state and country."

Governor James V. Allred said Texas had lost "a big man" who would be hard to replace.

President Roosevelt led the nation in grieving the Texas' death.

"A faithful and wise counselor, an indefatigable worker, has been lost to our national life in the passing of James P. Buchanan," the chief executive said. "As chairman of the great committee on appropriations of the house, he discharged his duties with great intelligence and strict fidelity."

"Unmoved by emotional appeal, above partisanship or sectionalism, he accepted the responsibilities of his trust with the single purpose of serving the highest interests of the nation as a whole. I personally mourn the loss of an old and staunch friend."

Hard to Trace Cases of Typhoid Fever to Source

Madison—(P)—"Modern gypsying" has greatly complicated the matter of tracing cases of typhoid fever to source. Dr. C. A. Edwards, senior epidemiologist of the state board of health reported today.

Asserting that the menace of typhoid in Wisconsin is "down but not out," Dr. Edwards said there were 96 known cases and 12 deaths from the disease in 1936. In only 32 cases was the probable source determined. Of 34 cases the origin remained a mystery.

A close study of the chronic typhoid carrier made by the board's department of communicable diseases last year, revealed 15 new individuals, raising the number of known carriers to more than 30 by the end of 1936.

Only 45 of last year's cases were rural residents; 51 were confined to urban centers. More than one-third of the city cases were traced to trips made prior to contracting the disease.

NAMED TO EXECUTIVE BOARD

Washington—(P)—Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin was elected to the executive board of 34 members of the newly formed National Lawyers' Guild yesterday. John P. Devaney, former chief justice of the Minnesota Supreme court, was elected its president.

Hughes Outlines Court Procedure At Lion Meeting

Explains Juvenile, Criminal Procedure, Compulsory Car Insurance

Menasha—The chief cause of juvenile delinquency is the failure of parents to understand their children, Judge Henry P. Hughes, Oshkosh, told members of the Menasha Lions club at their luncheon meeting Monday noon at the memorial building.

Outlining court system and procedure, Judge Hughes talked mainly on juvenile and criminal court procedures and voiced opinions on compulsory automobile insurance.

"The increase in juvenile delinquency is not because the younger generation is going to the dogs but rather because of the public realization that report of such cases will result in investigation and treatment," the speaker said.

Juvenile Cases

"Juvenile cases are handled without publicity and the records are at no time open to public inspection. Records are sealed and officials are sworn to secrecy. In the event a case of delinquency is brought to the attention of the county authorities in time, little trouble is experienced in righting the situation," he Judge continued.

"It is only when a case has gone too long that the child is a real case of delinquency. If parents will not cooperate with officials, a foster home is sought for the child. If this treatment has no effect, the subject is either delegated to the home for the feeble minded, the state school at Sparta or any one of the various industrial schools in the state," Judge Hughes said.

Speaking of criminal courts and procedure, the judge said, "The fact that most of you have no criminal record is merely a matter of luck. Many times you have probably just skirted through trouble in connection with driving your automobile. In criminal court procedure, a man may be arrested upon the complaint of another and a warrant is issued. The subject is arraigned and if the penalty for the offense is under $100 and six months, a plea of guilty or not guilty is entered. If the penalty is over that amount, the defendant is given a preliminary hearing to show that the offense was committed and he is bound over for trial by a 12-man jury."

Understand the Law

"If more of us understood the law and its penalties, which are more than fair in most cases, we would not drive our cars in such a reckless manner. When a man understands that if he is convicted of drunken or reckless driving, he may have his license taken from him for three years, he is bound to drive his car more carefully," Judge Hughes said.

When asked his opinion on compulsory automobile insurance, the judge said: "I believe that we should have compulsory automobile insurance. Under the situation today, the public is only half protected. Taking a man's license away after the accident has occurred or someone has been seriously injured is like locking the barn after the horse has been stolen."

He compared the situation to the day when a man was only responsible for his dog after the dog has bitten a person once. Under laws passed since that time, a man is responsible for what his dog does at all times.

Neenah, Menasha Renew Athletic Rivalry Friday

Twin City Squads to Meet In Northeastern Conference Game

Neenah—An ancient athletic feud will be renewed when Neenah and Menasha clash in a Northeastern Wisconsin conference basketball game at Menasha Friday evening. Menasha is perched one notch higher than Neenah in conference standings and is a slight favorite to win in view of a previous win this season and the Bluejays will be cavorting on their own floor. The Rockets, however, have knocked off conference teams which have taken the measure of Menasha and are working hard to perfect their scoring machine. The Neenah squad was baffled in a game against Shawano last Friday when confronted with a man-to-man defense which upset its usual scoring tactics.

Coach Ole Jorgenson will probably rely on the following lads to bring home the bacon: Dan and Don Schmidt, forwards; Jack Hesselman, center; Harold Rabideau and Robert Schultz, guards.

PUT OUT FIRE

Neenah — Neenah firemen were called to extinguish a carload of burning charcoal in the Soo line railroad yards at the end of Tyler street about 6:40 this morning. The load was considered a complete loss and it was believed the fire started as the result of spontaneous combustion.

Lawrence and Ripon Cagers Clash at Alexander Gym Tonight

Vikings Tripped Crimson Quintet Last Week, 31-26

Freshmen Teams From Two Schools Will Play Preliminary Game

ABSENT from the home floor for four weeks, Lawrence college basketball team will show before local followers tonight with Ripon college five in a Midwest conference contest. The teams are tied for the cellar championship with two wins and five losses each.

Last week the clubs clashed at Ripon and Lawrence came away winner by a 31 to 25 count but during most of the game it outplayed Ripon badly. The Vikings stepped away to a 9 to 1 lead and then got careless although holding a 15 to 11 edge at halftime. In the second quarter Lawrence again showed scoring ability and worked up a 30 to 14 lead with about 10 minutes of play remaining. During the final minutes the Vikings tried to give the game away but Ripon wasn't quite equal to the task of taking it.

Having shown itself a decidedly "home" team, the Vikings are given the edge in tonight's contest. However, Ripon's aggregation of football players, seems to have acquired a little caging ability in the last few days for after the Lawrence game the Redmen went into Illinois and lost two close games, also lost to the clubs but the margin was a trifle larger.

Indications are Coach Arthur C. Denney of Lawrence will use the starting lineup he used at Ripon. Straubel and Faleide will be the guards, Burton and Osen the forwards and Bennetts the center. Burton had a rather bad evening at Ripon but Denney feels he's snapped out of it now and will come through tonight. Bennetts is getting the nod at center because he plays better all around basketball than Kapp, who did so well in several games early this season. Kapp will be used, however, if Denney decided height is more essential than general play.

Coach Don Martin of Ripon probably will start Fallon and Kreik at the forwards, Radtke at center, Mathos and Lyle at the guards. Fallon is the chap who ran the Lawrence football team ragged last fall and he is highly proficient as a cager. Radtke is a tall boy who played end of the Crimson grid squad.

The evening's preliminary game will show the Lawrence and Ripon freshmen teams. The Viking yearlings played at Ripon last week and scored a 20 to 18 defeat when they missed at the free throw mark on too many occasions.

The frosh game will go on at 7:15 and the varsity game about 8:30.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

ECHOES of the Green Bay Golden gloves fights: Leon Toonen, Appleton, and George Zenz, Green Bay, 118-pound novices, staged one of the greatest battles of the tournament. . . Both boys pitched a lot of leather, Toonen dropping his opponent twice in the first. . . The second saw Leon take a beating and in the third both lads were just about all in. . .

Clay Hogan's pop of Oshkosh yelled loudly about Clay losing in the 135-pound novice class to Jerry Bradley, St. Norbert, on a foul which saw the latter's cup dented. . . But he didn't tell anyone that Clay probably didn't meet with requirements for the novice division in that he's had more than three or four bouts. . . Hogan's pop is a former boxer or manager or trainer or something like that and it's said around here that Hogan claims many fights when he seeks places on amateur cards. . .

Marquette Basketeers Battle Irish Tonight

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—Marquette University's cagers meet Notre Dame here tonight in the first battle of their annual two-game basketball series. A return game will be played in Milwaukee March 6.

The Irish five has set a fast pace after injuries and illness handicapped the team in early season play and rates a strong favorite to turn back the Hilltoppers. Notre Dame's team is built around Johnny Moir, high scoring forward, and Paul Norwak, giant center.

Coach Bill Chandler expects to rely on the Hilltop lineup that has clicked in recent games.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(AP)—Taking a commanding lead early in the game, Illinois decisively defeated Wisconsin, 48 to 31, here last night in a Big Ten conference basketball match.

The Illini never were headed, leading 26 to 9 at the half. Wisconsin was forced to shoot from long distances, the Illini guards halting the Badger attempts to work the ball under the net.

Captain Bob Riegel, lanky center who consistently controlled the tipoff, tied for Illinois offensive honors with Harry Combes, forward. Riegel sank five baskets and a gift toss, while Combes made four baskets and three free throws.

Y Volleyballers Win, Lose Matches

Drop Games to Oshkosh Elks but Defeat Sun Light Dairies

The Y.M.C.A. volleyball ball team traveled to Oshkosh last night and split in its evening's work, losing three straight games to the Oshkosh Elks by scores of 15-2, 15-4 and 15-12, and then defeating the Sun Light Dairies by scores of 15-8, 16-14 and 15-8.

It took the Appleton men just about 2 games to get warmed up to the small Elks club gym in which they played, and after finding their bearing, played a pretty fair sort of a game. The last game with the Elks was close and hard fought all the way, several rotations being made with neither team scoring points.

In the return match with the Dairy boys the outcome never was in question. The Appleton team had slowly become used to the low ceiling, the tight wall play and short end lines and as a result scored points almost at will. The second game developed into a deuce game after the locals had worked the score to 14 and 8. The Dairy boys came back to run six points and tie the score. The Y.M.C.A. braced at this point and scored the next two points to win the game.

The men making the trip were spikers, Captain Gene Mullin, Carl Feurst, Rev. C. M. Schendel and Carl Koletzke, and the set-up men were Robert Heiss, Robert Potter, Frank Hammer and Bert Norling. The Elks will play a return match at Appleton within the next 10 days.

Sutherland at Odds With Pin Official

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Dr. John B. (Gloomy Jack) Sutherland assented today "certain matters will have to be straightened out to my satisfaction" in University of Pittsburgh football activities.

The Pitt coach declined to say whether he intended to leave Pitt but insisted he and W. Don Harrison, director of athletics "had not been getting along on matters connected with the football team."

Neither Sutherland nor Harrison would say what their differences were, but Harrison declared: "If Jack thinks a showdown is necessary, he's perfectly free to have one."

Highs Oppose St. Mary Here Tonight and Invade Oshkosh Friday Evening

APPLETON High school basketball team will try to shake off its poor showing at Manitowoc last Friday night when it meets St. Mary of Menasha at Armory G this evening. The second teams from the two schools will play the preliminary. The preliminary is scheduled at 7:15 and the regular game at 8:15.

In the first meeting of the teams at Menasha in December, Appleton won by a fairly substantial margin. Since then, however, Coach Marvin Miller has spent a lot of time with his proteges and last Friday night they looked like a new team in beating St. Peter of Oshkosh. Berez, center and Resch, guard, are the outstanding performers.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS. Shortly before a late party starts in Anne Phelps' studio apartment, Count Vronski, who is trying to force her to marry him, is shot to death. Bigelow, the young American from Paris, finds Anne and Karsanokoff, the stunning dancer, staring at the corpse. They decide to hide it in a cupboard and go on with the party. Bigelow phones his old friend, Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, who comes to help. When the guests leave, Austrelitz suggests he and Bigelow remove the body to Vronski's apartment.

Chapter 12
DEATH DISGUISED AS A TRUNK
"If you don't mind waiting here," said Bigelow, "I'll take them home, first I don't think we ought to leave this place unguarded for an instant. Though, while he's here, do you?" "Certainly not," agreed Austrelitz. "I shall wait of course." "You'll find food there, if you're hungry," said Bigelow. "Do," said Anne. "You'll find everything you want in the kitchen, I'm sure." They began to get into their wraps.

"Just remember one thing," said Austrelitz gravely, "if you should be questioned at any time in the future—and it is almost inevitable that you will be—when you arrived here from the night club Count Vronski departed again about 10 minutes later to fetch his friends. And that was the last you saw of him! After that he telephoned that he was not coming back. But you can't answer any questions about the telephone call, Anne. Only Madame Karsanokoff talked with him. Do you both understand that?" "Yes," answered Anne gravely. "Yes," answered Karsanokoff. "My professional reputation is at stake in this, now, as well as the liberty of all of you and perhaps the life of one."

"Yes," said Anne again. "We understand I think," answered Karsanokoff. "I'll come back as quickly as I can make it," Bigelow assured Austrelitz, and the three departed. At the corner, they found a taxi. "Give him my address first, I'm nearer," said Karsanokoff.

Bigelow did, although his anxious glance rested on Anne who had collapsed there, her face half hidden in the huge upturned collar of her chinchilla coat. It was nearly five o'clock by that time and very cold. As the taxi started, Karsanokoff leaned forward and closed the sliding window in front, cutting off the driver.

"You must be careful to leave no finger-prints in his apartment," she said in a low voice to Bigelow. "The American police are very keen on the scent—if one is to believe what one reads."

"Quite," murmured Bigelow. She lighted a cigarette. She seemed neither suffering from the strain they had all been through, nor even tired. Her vitality, Bigelow reflected, must be enormous. "Probably," she added, "his valet will discover him when he arrives in the morning. Then he will notify the police. But that will be too late for the morning newspapers. We can expect nothing before the afternoon editions. So I shall sleep late. If either of you should think of telephoning to me, be guarded. Do not forget that I am in a hotel."

"Of course not," said Bigelow. She remained silent then until the taxi drew up at the Carlton.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

What Mandate?

In an able speech, containing what I believe to be sound criticism of some of the important decisions rendered by the Supreme Court in this generation, Representative Harlan, of Ohio, said: "The President represents the people. He is their elected official. He was given a mandate by them to carry out the purposes of the New Deal. What should he do under these circumstances?" What he should do, it seems to me, is to carry out the mandate which he received from the people. The mandate is in the Democratic platform, and it reads as follows: "We have sought and will continue to seek to meet these problems through legislation within the Constitution. If these problems cannot be effectively solved by legislation within the Constitution, we shall seek such clarifying amendment as will assure the necessary power to Congress and the several states."

This was the mandate—to try to draft constitutional laws for the New Deal or to amend the Constitution. There was not a word, not a hint, about the need for "reorganizing" the judiciary, about the law's delays, about the age and the infirmity of the judges. "Voice of Exploitation" Objects to Proposal

Mr. Harlan says that those who objected to the plan are the voice of exploitation. What I should like to know is whether he would have been in favor of the disclosure of the plan on July 1, 1936 I should like to know whether Mr. Farley, as a major prophet, would have been in favor of announcing in the platform that the President proposed to force six justices to resign or to pack the court if they did not like it. I should like to know whether Mr. Roosevelt would have cared to run for reelection on a platform containing this proposal. Having received carefully all that Senators Easley and Robinson had to say about the Constitution in their keynote addresses at Philadelphia, and all that was said in the platform, and all that was not said on the subject by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner, I feel sure that they knew perfectly well that it would be inviting political destruction for them to attack the court during the election.

So I say it is not honorable on their part to attack the court right after the election, and to justify the act by asserting that they have a mandate from the people.

Electoral Mandate Have Been They do not know whether they would have been elected had the people known about this plan. No man can be sure how the election would have gone had this issue been frankly put to the voters. But that the result would have been no landslide is evident from the behavior of the congress today. Though congress is overwhelmingly Democratic and closely tied to Mr. Roosevelt as its leader, it is almost certain that the measure would be defeated if the senate were allowed to vote as it thinks. Dangerous as president, he has not yet obtained the open support of a majority. And in order to get that majority he is compelled to resort to every form of political pressure, to every form of political persuasion, that he can exert. And at that he may fail. If it were true that he has a mandate for this thing, would it be necessary to make such desperate appeals to his own partisan following?

It is being said also that this scheme for ousting six justices under the threat to pack the court is perfectly "legal," that the constitution leaves it to congress to determine the size of the court. General Johnson, I believe is an enthusiast for this argument.

General Johnson Is Enthusiast for Plan This is perhaps the most immoral argument which has yet been offered. It amounts to saying that public men may use the letter of the law to violate its spirit. For if it is true that congress can add six justices in order to change the complexion of the court, it can, of course, add nine justices or fifteen. If that is what the constitution means, then each congress can "repack" the court to suit itself. Obviously the constitution contemplates no such absurdity as that. It assumes that congress will maintain a court which is large enough and not too large to do its task efficiently. It is a vicious kind of legalism to say that this legal authority may be used to destroy the independence of the court.

It might as well be said that because Congress votes the salaries of the justices and provides them with a courthouse, it has a perfect right to tell the courthouses and refuse to appropriate the salaries if it does not like the opinions of the justices. It is, indeed, a quaint notion of government that the public may do anything that the letter of the law permits. Thus the President, being charged with the conduct of foreign relations, has under the letter of the law a perfect right to pick a quarrel with any other nation and present Congress with a situation where it must declare war.

If He Used Powers To Bring War He Would Be 'Lawless' He can order the fleet to bombard a city; he can order the army to invade another nation's territory, and he is within the letter of the law. But a President who used these legal powers to enmesh the country in a war which affected its destiny would be regarded as a lawless man. The people would cry out that, whatever the letter of the law, the spirit of the law requires that he should consult them first.

Well, this is a proposal to alter the Constitution by exploiting the legal authority to designate the number of judges. And since the

Up-to-the-minute... and then some... that's the automobile man's motto. And that's our policy, too. Those new Congress rooms may not be streamlined, but they certainly are sparkling, new and comfortable. And the gay new restaurants and delicious food make the Congress Chicago's favorite dining place.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
New York.—(P)—The stock market back-tracked today for losses of 1 to 2 points.

Wall street attributed falling tendencies principally to fresh nervousness over the labor outlook and the belief in some quarters that exciting speculation abroad in armaments materials was due to come a chopper.

Fast dealings put the ticker tape behind frequently in the first hour. The volume lessened later but picked up at the finish. Transfers approximated 2,950,000 shares.

Yesterday's sensational London upturn in the price of copper, tin, lead and zinc buoyed stocks in this line at the opening, many climbing fractions to 2 points. The sprint was short-lived, however, as price trends were reversed in the British market.

Commission house observers thought the recent failure of many high grade stocks to take part in the selective climb encouraged traders to shelve commitments and take a turn on the short side.

Bonds tilted lower, with carriers especially giving ground. Commodities were mixed.

Added Receipts Slash Hog Prices

Cattle Also Lower as Result Of Increased Supplies in Chicago

Chicago.—(P)—Hogs market receipts, which continued to increase during the morning after a weekend delay due to floods and storms, depressed trade today.

Transactions were slow and prices were mostly 15 to 25 cents lower than yesterday's average.

Sharply increased receipts in the cattle runs here today placed the market in the buyers' hands. The fed steer crops tended to average from 25 to 50 cents lower than yesterday's price.

There was not much action in lambs as supplies of choice kinds were meager, but indications were from weak to 25 cents lower.

Native Wisconsin Trees

Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

BLUE-BEECH
The blue-beech or hornbeam is found over the entire state, usually on rich moist soils or on well drained soil in the shade of other trees.

It is usually a low, bushy tree, 10 to 30 feet high, with a spreading crown of slender crooked or drooping branches. The trunk is usually 6 to 8 inches in diameter, fluted, often crooked, and short.

The leaves are simple, alternate, oval, long pointed, double toothed along the margin, and 2 to 3 inches in length. Both male and female flowers are in catkins born on the same tree. The fruit is a nutlet about 1-3 inch long, and falls attached to the leaf-like three-lobed scale, which acts as a wing in aiding its distribution by the wind.

The bark is smooth, light brownish gray to dark bluish gray in color, resembling that of the true beech. The wood is hard, strong, light brown, with thick nearly white sapwood, and is locally used for levers, tool handles, etc. The tree is of no commercial importance, and is valuable for forestry purposes but is attractive as an ornamental tree because of its fluted trunk and delicate branches, and the orange and scarlet coloring of its leaves in autumn. It is too small for a street tree.

Expect Market On Steel Will Continue Strong

Labor Is Only Uncertain Factor Seen for Future

Every factor save labor uncertainties points to continued and increasing activity of the steel industry, says Steel.

All lines of domestic business are seeking steel in nearly every form and foreign countries are insistent here for more tonnage. Resumption of motor production has restored demand interrupted by the General Motors strike and rehabilitation following the Ohio river flood is calling for heavy supplies. Mills are falling behind and in some instances sheet deliveries are 12 to 15 weeks delayed. Delivery has become more important than price with many consumers. Buying is being done for second quarter with no price named.

Better Rates
Better operating rates, in most producing centers have caused an increase of 2 points to 3 per cent of capacity. Pittsburgh rose two points to 86 per cent, Eastern Pennsylvania 14 points to 56 per cent, and Chicago one-half point to 80 per cent. Buffalo increased one point to 86 and Birmingham one point to 77. Cleveland reached 79 per cent by adding three points and Detroit 94 per cent by adding 8 points; Cincinnati, rising from the flood, increased 30 points to 60 per cent; Youngstown and Wheeling at 80 per cent and St. Louis at 82 showed no change; only New England dropped, losing two points to 86 per cent.

Prices for second quarter are under discussion and it is believed that some adjustments are likely to be made which might include pig iron, sheets and wire. In some quarters last week there was mentioned the possibility of a general advance coupled with a further rise in wages.

Tops Awards
Award of 4,000 tons for the north tube of the Midtown-Hudson tunnel at New York topped the structural steel market for the week. Total awards were 18,291 tons, compared with 18,454 tons the preceding week and 20,697 tons a year ago. Probably heavy covering by buyers. Prices advanced is still restricting new business.

World shortage of iron and steel is becoming more apparent. Great Britain, for some time a heavy importer of semifinished steel from the Continent, is unable to obtain as much as she needs and steelworks are crippled. Her imports fell off 11,716 tons in January. British production is sold to the middle of the year. An inquiry for 30,000 tons of pig iron for England has been received in this country. Japan is reliably reported to have bought 35,000 tons of iron in addition to 45,000 tons placed several weeks ago. Export inquiries include also scrap, tin plate, reinforcing bars and wire rods. Current orders booked for tin plate have exceeded domestic orders in the experience of some producers. Export prices have been advanced on barbed wire $3, wire nails $8 and plain wire $4 per ton.

More Importance
Deliveries are assuming more importance, especially in shoes and strip, sales being made for delivery in second quarter, to be billed at prices prevailing at the time. Position on mill books is eagerly sought. Under prevailing conditions it is difficult, if not impossible, for consumers to accumulate stocks of steel, however much they are desired. Here again the threat of labor interruption of production dictates wisdom of providing supplies wherever possible.

Resumption of automobile production by General Motors carried production last week to 95,699 units, a gain of 22,748 over the preceding week. This was almost equal to production of the week of Jan. 9, when 96,780 cars left the assembly lines. These figures compare with 121,038 the week of Dec. 19, when the industry may be said to have been at its stride.

Settlement Announced in Sit-Down Strike of Employer and Workers

Detroit.—(P)—One of the strangest industrial disputes in history—a joint sit-down of capital and labor—ended today with the announced settlement of a four-day strike at the Fry Products, Inc., which manufactures automobile seat covers.

A volunteer mediator, Alfred R. Glancy, former president of the Oakland Motor Car company and one-time vice president of General Motors corporation, said:

"The strike was settled at midnight after a four-hour discussion with representatives of the company's employees."

"We shall not mention the terms of the settlement."

"All we have to say is that it has been amicably settled by both parties and work will be resumed at 8 o'clock Thursday morning."

"All parties have agreed to refrain from making any further statements or discuss the terms of the settlement."

Fears Spring Flood Crests On Upper Mississippi May Equal or Top Last Year's

LaCrosse.—(P)—A. D. Sanial, government meteorologist, said today that a survey just completed indicated 1937 spring flood crests in the upper Mississippi river valley would equal or exceed those of 1936, unless favorable weather conditions prevail.

He said the snow cover is unusually heavy this year, adding:

"Seasonal precipitation for the period Nov. 1—Feb. 22 at LaCrosse shows 4.81 inches melted or 3.65 inches of snowfall for 1935-36, 6.5 inches melted or 4.33 inches of snowfall for 1936-37. Readings from 21 representative stations in the upper Mississippi show almost a similar increase this season."

Sanial said the normal melted precipitation for the five winter months at LaCrosse is 6.83 inches, only 15 inches more than that for the first four months of this winter.

"As a result of preliminary studies of probable high water stages in the LaCrosse river district," Sanial said, "the following indicated crest stages are shown using as a basis of computation the seasonal precipitation from Nov. 1 to March 1 of 21 stations and comparing these seasonal averages for the past 20 years with the corresponding crest stages under all conditions of runoff."

Indicated Stages
"A Stages under conditions of rapid runoff such as attendant mild weather and rainfall at the time of breakup: LaCrosse 13.6 feet; Winona (Minn) 16.5, Durand 14.6. "B Under normal conditions, LaCrosse 11.8 feet, Winona 14.0; Durand 12.4. "C Slow runoff with alternate freezing and thawing over a prolonged period: LaCrosse 10.0 feet; Winona 11.8; Durand 10.8."

With normal conditions, last year's peaks were LaCrosse 11.9 feet, Winona 12.03, Durand 11.5 and 12.1 (two being noted at the mouth of the Chippewa river).

"Frost depth this year is only one-half of last year," Sanial said, "being 12 to 24 inches, while ice thickness in the Mississippi river channel is of the same proportion."

"Due to the period of mild weather extending from Feb. 14 to 21, the ice in the river weakened considerably. Unless very cold weather sets in the last few days of February and the first week in March, the ice will move out in the vicinity of La Crosse before the average time of March 21."

Sanial said LaCrosse and other communities northward to the mouth of the Chippewa river could expect two periods of high water—the first when the snow in western Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota melts, the second after the northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota breakup.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

across the pavement and into the car.

This they accomplished without much difficulty. The street was a quiet one at that hour. They arranged Vronski in the rear to look as though he were sleeping, with his coat collar turned up and his hat drawn down well over his face. Bigelow sat beside him to keep the body steady. Austrelitz drove.

The first hitch occurred when they pulled up before Vronski's door. They had counted upon his having a latch-key to his apartment but Bigelow could not find one in his pockets. "There must be one," cried Austrelitz impatiently. "He must have had some means of getting in. Look again."

As Bigelow began a second feverish search, Austrelitz whispered, "Hold on. There's a policeman coming. And he went on in a low, guttural tone. "But it's too late to go anywhere, old fellow. What you need more than anything else is sleep and plenty of it."

Catching his cue, Bigelow pretended to address Vronski, too, and said, "That's right, old chap. Everyone will be in bed there by this time. It's five o'clock, you know."

The policeman glanced at them and saw them apparently arguing together. His casual glance rested on them for an instant inquiringly and then moved to regard the house before which they had halted, but Austrelitz smiled and nodded at him, as he stepped out and came around to open the rear door and so naturally shut off the policeman's view. And the policeman passed on his way.

President Walter L. Fry, who became the nation's No. 1 boss sit-downer in retaliation for a strike of his employees last Friday, tumbled onto his cot in his office to get some sleep immediately after the settlement was announced.

Fry declined to answer any questions, but Glancy said the company president would end his strike and leave the plant later in the day. Some of the 110 employees, who participated in the sit-down, already have left the premises. Glancy said, and the rest would leave during the day.

The plant employs 350, mostly girls and women.

In starting his sit-down Fry told the strikers:

"If you won't work, then I won't go out and get orders to provide you with work. Something must be done to curb sit-downs. The uncertainty has the whole country on edge."

Cast Is Named For Play to be Given by Pupils

Thespian Club to Sponsor 'The Yankee King'

New London—The cast for "The Yankee King," the 8-act comedy chosen by the Thespian players of Washington High school for the annual presentation, was announced yesterday by H. H. Brockhaus, dramatics coach. Because the cast of 15 players exceeds the membership in the Thespian group a few students wishing to qualify for membership were given the opportunity to take part. First rehearsals were held last night.

Roland Rosenberger will play the stellar role as Pa Hinkle, a meek husband who rises to a king's power in a dream. Ma Hinkle will be portrayed by Carolyn Calef. Their daughter, 18, will be played by Ruth Hanson and their son, 17, by Douglas Hanson. Martin O'Brien will play Wayne Douglas, a young aviator engaged to the Hinkles' daughter.

In the kingdom of Laurania Robert Wilkinson will be Stephen Krueger, prime minister. Alan Fomstad will be Oswald Mahler, a councilor. Dorice Ziemer will have the role of secretary of war as Melissa Destinn and Rosanna Garot will be the Duchess Augusta. Her daughter will be portrayed by Mary Dawson.

Courtiers will be Rudd Meiklejohn and Harold Herres. The attractive pages will be Lois Bleck and Kathleen Smith. Ruth Sawall will play the part of Wanda, an artist's model.

On the production staff are Douglas Fomstad as stage manager, and Roy Crain, electrician and sound effects technician.

Pupils Qualify For Speech Meets

Forensics Finals Scheduled At School on March 1

New London—The following students qualified for the final contests in forensic work at Washington High school when they survived the try-outs at the school last Friday:

Oratory: Roy Crain, Roland Rosenberger, Harold Herres and Robert Wilkinson; declamatory, Patricia Egan, Shirley Fomstad, Helen Schoenrock, Alice Stanley, Jean Ullrich, Mary Elizabeth Backes, Marjorie Lathrop and Gertrude Backes; extemporaneous reading, Catherine McNichols, Lois Vandenberg, Eva Thompson, Mary Dawson, Polly Hartquist and Alice Stanley.

As there were only seven entrants in extemporaneous speaking there were no try-outs held and the following will take part in the finals: Roy Crain, Harold Herres, Rudd Meiklejohn, Lois Vandenberg, Marlice Moede, Ruth Kuzzevski and Alan Fomstad.

The finals will be held March 1 and the winners of those will represent the school in the conference forensic tournament.

Mrs. Carrie Hooper was hostess to the New London Women's Study club yesterday afternoon. Symphonic music was the general topic of discussion. Mrs. F. J. Peller spoke of the development of symphony orchestras in America and Mrs. N. R. Demming discussed orchestral works and their performance by American orchestras. Typical music was studied by means of phonograph records. A current topic was given by Mrs. O. K. Ziebur.

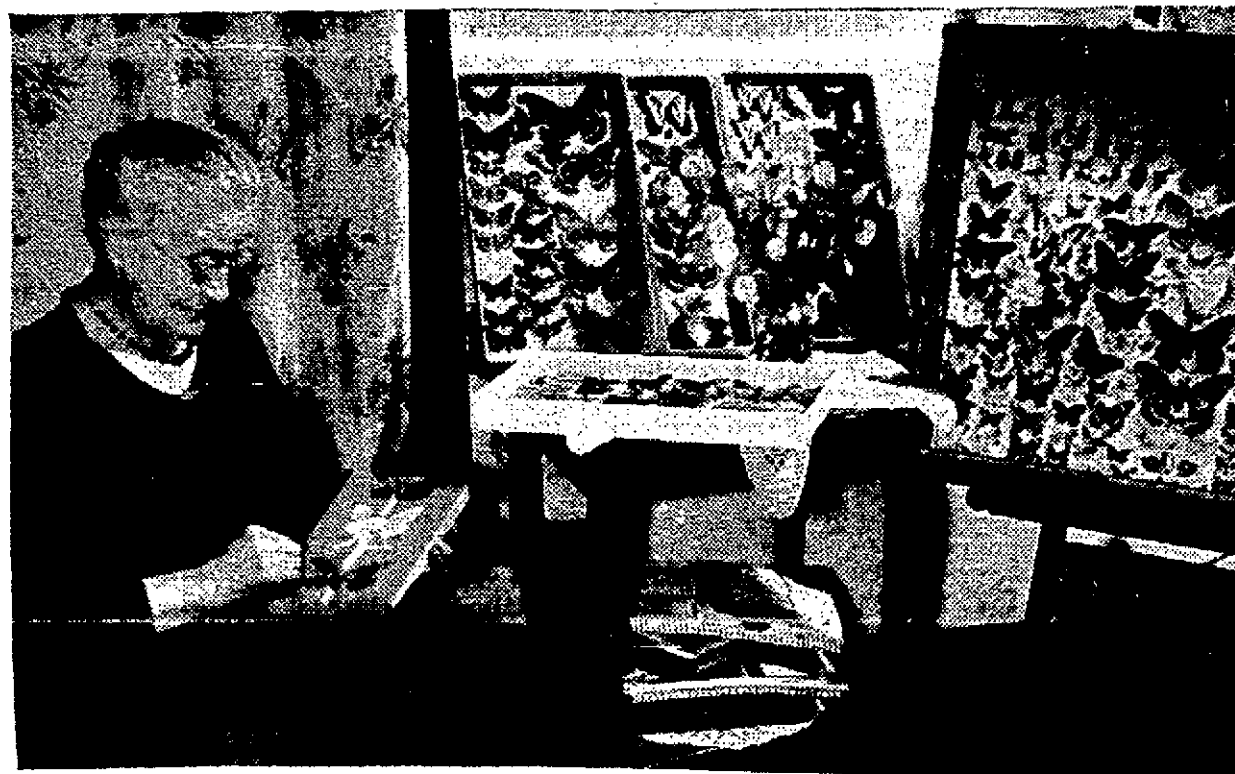

The Owego club was entertained by Mrs. Gus Sawall yesterday afternoon. Prizes went to Mrs. Ellsworth Frank, Mrs. J. Jeffers and Mrs. Charles Haese. Mrs. Anthony Joubert will entertain next Monday.

BREAKS LEG IN FALL

New London—G. A. Konrad, chief engineer at the Borden Milk plant, suffered a fractured right leg when he slipped and fell on the icy walks on his way home from work last evening. He lives at 315 E. Wolf River avenue and fell near the New London Farmers exchange.

New London Office

News items and orders for subscriptions may be left at that address or may be telephoned by calling 18. Papers missed by carriers will be delivered if complaint is made before 7 p. m.

MRS. LEHMAN ADDS ANOTHER SPECIMEN TO COLLECTION

A lifelong ambition has been realized in the last three years by Mrs. Elizabeth Lehman, 70, New London, who is a collector of moth and butterfly specimens. As a girl, Mrs. Lehman wanted to follow her hobby, but was unable to do so until the last three years. Her activity during that period, however, has resulted in a house full of mounted specimens and cocoons. (Post-Crescent Photo)

New London Woman Realizes Ambition To Collect and Mount Butterflies

New London—Mrs. Elizabeth Lehman, 414 E. Pine street, didn't think her 70 years too old to realize a lifelong ambition to catch, raise, preserve and mount moths, butterflies and beetles as she has been doing the past three years. She estimates she has a collection of about 800 specimens, representing between 150 to 200 different species, among them many of which are rare in this area and which are not found in collections of others who have been collecting for a much longer time.

She has spent almost every Sunday during the summer months in the open fields and along the Wolf river catching the winged insects with a net or capturing the cocoons which she hatches in her home. Children also bring her many worms which are given the opportunity to spin their cocoons in her home.

A moth or butterfly hatches in the house almost every day and until she accidentally stepped on a newly-hatched prize specimen last fall she always let them rest anywhere. Now she keeps the cocoons under nets placed around the windows or in some corner.

Interest Started Early
Mrs. Lehman said she was interested in moths and butterflies since she was a small girl and had managed to secure enough specimens to enter them in New London fairs many years ago. She always won a prize even though the specimens were exhibited in plain cardboard boxes such as those in the picture.

The exhibit pictured is only a small part of her collection. Most of them are packed away in boxes but the elaborate case to the right in the picture contains about 350 moths, butterflies and beetles with a duplication of some species. She has another similar case showing about 150. Unless she sells or displays some soon she fears she will have to discontinue her hobby for lack of storage space. She is shown pinning several new specimens to the mounting board. Small strips of paper under weights hold the wings in place until they have thoroughly set.

Supreme Court Is Discussed in Talk

New London—Rotarians heard a non-political review of the supreme court and its past history by Wendell McHenry, Waupaca, former district attorney, at the noon luncheon meeting at Elwood hotel yesterday. Mr. McHenry explained the actions of the supreme court and critical periods in its existence since its creation under the United States constitution.

The talk was designed to give listeners the knowledge to judge intelligently the recently proposed amendment to the constitution increasing the number of justices in the court and generally reducing its power. In its history the court has numbered from five to ten members, the speaker said.

Lamp Post Broken Off When Struck by Car

New London—To avoid hitting another car Theodore Guyette drove his machine onto the sidewalk and smashed down a street lamp post in front of the New London Feed and Flour company on S. Pearl street about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Neither the driver nor other occupants of the car were injured though the front of the machine was damaged.

According to police reports Guyette was driving north on S. Pearl street when Herbert Nitzsche, route 1, Shiocton, turned north onto the street in front of him from South Water street. A new lamp post was installed early Monday morning.

Business Women Observe International Night

New London—Sixty women attended the International Night program of the New London Business and Professional Women's club at the American Legion clubhouse last evening. Guests were members of the Catholic Women's Study club, New London Women's Study club and the Women's Civic Improvement league.

Prof. Donald DuShane, Lawrence college, said there was no international peace today and outlined the various reasons for the unrest in Europe. He said he felt another war was inevitable. He touched on past wars in the history of the United States, particularly the World war and warned that sheer will to remain neutral would not keep America out. He outlined the policies which America must establish to assure peace in any circumstances.

Program Numbers
Entertainment was provided by a group of little girls and an international chorus made up of club members. Betty Fitzgerald danced the Irish jig and there were dances by Yvonne Holmes, Jackie Morak and Kathryn Lowell dressed as Dutch sweeties.

Folk songs of other countries were sung by an international chorus in full costume. The members of the chorus were Miss Edna Kunz as Germany; Helen Smith as Russia; Mrs. Selma Ribbany as Spain; Mrs. Rose Nemschoff as Scotland; Marie Hanke as France; and Mrs. Lydia Shoemaker as a Japanese. They were accompanied by Mrs. Luella Andrews. The group also presented a flag drill.

Gary Cooper says:

"It's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke"

"A little over a year ago I changed to Luckies because I enjoy the flavor of their tobacco. Ever since, my throat has been in fine shape. As my voice and throat mean so much to me in my business, it's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke. So I'm strong for Luckies!"

THE FINEST TOBACCOS—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Cooper verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
